WHO OWNS WHAT?

Supreme Court Hears Involved Mineral Claim

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada was set today through a succession of property transfers involving an Indian band, the federal government and various agencies and 13 Alberta soldier-settlers in the Ponoka area. The object was to establish whether the settlers own the mineral rights.

Lawyer G. H. Steer of Edmonton, counsel for 13 First World War veterans who bought from the old soldier settlement board a total of 31.5 square miles formerly belonging to the Bobtail's band of Indians, quoted from statutes and documents. He sought to show that when the Indians surrendered their land to the federal government in 1909 their surrender involved all rights.

At stake is a ruling by the Exchequer Court of Canada that the settlement board had no power to convey the mineral rights.

The issue arose when in 1948 the federal government announced it would transfer to soldier-settlers who had paid off their land purchase the mineral rights to it—if the government owned the rights. Where the rights belonged elsewhere such farmers would be out of luck.

The 13 appellants were invited by the settlement board to apply for the rights and to pay a $25 fee to cover costs and administration. Later the fee money was returned, with letters saying a check had disclosed that the mineral rights in their land remained with the Indian affairs branch, not the settlement board.

NICARAGUA MOBILIZES TO FIGHT HONDURAS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UP) — President Luis Somoza ordered a general mobilization of the army today "for the legal defence of our northern frontier" in Nicaragua's 50-year-old border dispute with Honduras.

RAY'S STORY

Priest, Louis Did It

(Sugar Ray Robinson became the first man in boxing history to win the world middleweight title four times Wednesday night when he knocked out Gene Fullmer in the fifth round at Chicago. Here is his own story of the historic fight.)

By RAY ROBINSON
(Written for the United Press)

Two of my best friends—a fighting priest and a fighting ex-champion—joined hands in making me the middleweight champion of the world again.

They were Father Lane (The Rev. Jovian Lane of St. Joseph's Seminary, Westmont, Ill.), who gave me spiritual guidance, and Joe Louis, who gave me the benefit of his boxing experience.

I'm not a Catholic—I go to all churches—but Father Lane was kind and gracious enough to help me spiritually in my time of need. He's been with me before other fights and I've never lost when he's been in my corner.

It also must have been Divine Providence that enabled Louis to be with me throughout my training, and it was the hundreds of his little suggestions put together that enabled me to change my style sufficiently from my first fight to score the knockout that I felt was in me.

When a boxer gets older he's bound to lose some of his sharpness but it's impossible for him to recognize what's gone, Joe did that for me like the true friend he is. More than anything else, he taught me how to step back and punch as Fuller came pressing in on me. That's what I just couldn't do in the first fight and it proved to be the difference this time.

Joe was a great stylist and a terrific boxer—a lot of people forget this because he was one of the greatest punchers of all time. But believe me, when he talked I listened—and I must have listened pretty good.

I'm not kidding myself a bit. I needed all the help I could get. This Fuller is one rough cookie—and I feel mighty fortunate that I won as I did. He's strong as a bull and takes a punch like few boys around these days. I drove home several good shots and all he did was blink and come back swinging.

He was a fairly easy target and I felt rather confident that one of those shots would have just a little extra something on it and he'd have to fall rather than blink.

I think I weakened him with a couple of sharp rights earlier in the fifth, which certainly helped when the opening presented itself as he charged in and I swung home the left hook that put him on the canvas.

St. Laurent Fires First Salvo in B.C.

A four-day visit to British Columbia opened today for Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent as his "election special" train wound through the Rockies from Calgary.

His first campaigning was a 20-minute platform speech at Field, where the prime minister was met by James Byrne, Liberal MP for Kootenay East in the last Commons.

Mr. St. Laurent's busy round of speeches and hand-shaking begins in Vancouver Friday morning.

HERE SATURDAY

He will address a giant rally in Georgia Auditorium in the evening, travel to Nanaimo Saturday morning and arrive in Victoria by car at 5:30 p.m.

Meanwhile on the national campaign front there were these developments today:

1.—A French-language Progressive Conservative television broadcast in Montreal indicated the party intends to make an election issue of the Norman case.

Speaking on a CBC TV network, Leon Balcer, PC member of the last Parliament for Trois-Rivières, said Canadians are entitled to know whether their government "employed a Communist ambassador" in one of the key world centres.

2. Revenue Minister McCann challenged the Progressive Conservatives to prove that the federal loan to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. was not of advantage to the country.

Dr. McCann referred in a speech at Campbell's Bay, Que., to the bitter Commons battle last spring over the government decision to lend Trans-Canada up to $80,000,000 toward construction of the Prairie leg of its proposed Alberta-Montreal natural gas pipeline.

"The $47,000,000 that was loaned by the government to the promoters of the pipeline was all paid back on schedule," he said, "and in addition that the government collected $1,000,000 in interest. That was one of the best business propositions this country has ever entered into, and I defy anyone to point up a better deal."

3. The Canadian Press in an Ottawa report says the prime minister has been trying to get President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress to become a senator.

Mr. Jodoin, 44, would have become the youngest member ever summoned to the Senate.

New Business Levy May Stop Tax Hike

Revised Plan Before Council This Afternoon

By PETE LOUDON

A revised plan for a Victoria business tax, which would be initiated this year, was expected to be approved at a special meeting of city council late today.

If adopted, it is expected to save the city from a threatened four-mill tax boost.

It was devised at a closed meeting of Ald. Hugh Ramsay's business tax committee Tuesday night.

Ald. Ramsay said he would ask council to rescind a previous business tax blueprint which was based on property assessments and chargeable against the owner of business premises.

He then intended to ask adoption of a business tax based on assessed rental values and charged to occupants of business premises.

"We will recommend the city assessor compile a separate tax roll of rental values and that this roll be completed by August 31 so that courts of revision can be held soon after."

Under the plan, merchants would be advised the tax is to be charged this year and although the present system of trade licences would be scrapped, payments made by merchants in January and July would be credited to the business tax levy.

Ald. Ramsay says he feels the committee's proposal will refute recent charges by Ald. Donald Smith that council had no intention of bringing in the new tax.

The new tax, a set percentage of assessed rental values, is in line with authorities granted by the new Municipal Act and calls for no special legislation.

"We think this will eliminate all controversy at council level," said Ald. Ramsay.

"It will prove we sincerely want a business tax and will prove to critics of this committee and council generally, that we are sincere in our efforts and doing all we can for betterment of the city."

"Anyone who opposes this plan just doesn't want a business tax in Victoria."

MIDDLE EAST BIG FOUR

Arab Pact Hinted As Show of Unity

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials believe that Saudi Arabia and Jordan will join Egypt and Syria soon in creating a new show of Arab unity, despite their recent political conflict over Jordan's fate.

This prospect was advanced here today as one reason why the United States has not directly pointed a finger of blame at Egypt's President Nasser for his role in the Jordanian crisis.

U.S. policy and propaganda apparently are designed to take into account the desires and purposes of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Hussein of Jordan. American officials say they do not believe that real unity can in fact be restored among the four, but if Saud and Hussein want to play Arab politics that way the U.S. evidently will not interfere.

Furthermore, officials do not want to get American policy in a position where the two Arab rulers could cut the ground from under it. That would happen if the kings showed outward friendship for Nasser and Syrian President Shukri Al Kuwatty when Washington was blaming the Arab presidents for much of the trouble.

Officials also feel that any outright U.S. attack on Nasser tends to strengthen his internal position in Egypt. Also, with the control of the Suez Canal now completely in his hands, Nasser is in position himself to make trouble for the West.

Seems th' councillors are taxin' their imaginations t' find more taxes.

FREEDOM, NEW LIFE WON FOR NEW CANADIANS

Separated 13 years by the Iron Curtain, the family of Pacific Club steward Josef Heimbach, right, was reunited midnight Wednesday at Patricia Bay airport. Horst, left, is 16; was three when last seen by his father. Wife Elena, exhausted by eight days of questioning by Rumanian and Canadian officials, confused by language difficulties, rested today. The Heim-machs have been apart since Josef was drafted into the German navy in 1944. When Russia took over Rumania, he could not return nor get his family out. Miracle reunion was effected by Red Cross. Red Cross has worked on the Heimbach case almost four years. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

ON THE HUSTINGS

Prime Minister To Go Fishing At Brentwood Bay

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent will take time off from his strenuous campaigning Sunday to go fishing in Brentwood Bay.

An enthusiastic fisherman, Mr. St. Laurent will try to hook a salmon from the deck of the yacht Fifer, which is bringing him to Nanaimo from Vancouver Saturday morning.

The prime minister will motor down island Saturday, arriving in Victoria at 5.30 p.m. At 7 p.m. Alistair Fraser, Liberal candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich, will hold a reception for Mr. St. Laurent in the Empress Hotel.

An hour later the prime minister will arrive at the Royal Theatre for a giant Liberal rally attended by the four Vancouver Island candidates. Defence Minister Ralph Campney also will speak.

On Sunday, Mr. St. Laurent will attend Mass at St. Andrew's Cathedral at 9 a.m. and then pay a visit to Veterans' Hospital where he will speak to the assembled patients.

For the rest of the day until he leaves Patricia Bay airport at 5 p.m. for Vancouver he will be "gone fishing."

Pearkes Names His Campaign Officials

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, seeking his fourth straight election win in Esquimalt-Saanich for the Progressive-Conservatives, has named his campaign officials.

G. R. Bradbrooke is campaign manager; Hugh Henderson, official agent; Hugh A. Chisom, public relations, and William Martin in charge of campaign headquarters at 3244 Douglas.

Gen. Pearkes, officially nominated Tuesday night, will begin his speaking tour in Port Renfrew next Monday. He will speak in View Royal on Thursday, Marigold Friday and Metochos on the following Monday, May 13.

On the rest of that week Gen. Pearkes will be on the mainland campaigning for other candidates.

An old ban on holding political meetings in schools was rescinded by Courtenay school board this week.

As a result, national Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker will speak in Courtenay High School auditorium May 22.

Harold Winch was nominated without opposition Wednesday night by CCF delegates in Vancouver East, the riding he first won in 1953.

Mr. Winch, long-time CCF leader in B.C., expounded a platform of social welfare provisions and a "return to a democratic Parliament."

He urged the introduction by the next federal government of a capital gains tax, adoption of a national health insurance scheme and a minimum $75 monthly old-age pension, expansion of home-ownership and

Zucco Story 'Shameful', Says Turner

VANCOUVER (CP) — A CCF MLA today attacked the Social Credit government for rejecting a petition of right filed by a disabled miner.

Arthur Turner, Vancouver East, said the rejection shows that the government is afraid to "enforce its own legislation."

The petition was filed last November for Jack Zucco of New Westminster in the miner's long fight to receive a full silicosis pension from the Workmen's Compensation Board.

"The whole story is a shameful sequence of events in which the claimant has proven that the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act, aided and abetted by the provincial government, has degenerated from a farce to a tragedy," said Mr. Turner.

He said Zucco, after using all legal avenues to prove his claim, has been denied the right to prove the Compensation Board is "guilty of maladministration of the act."

He said the "legality of the board is now seriously challenged."

Delay to Fall Indicated In Sommers' Case

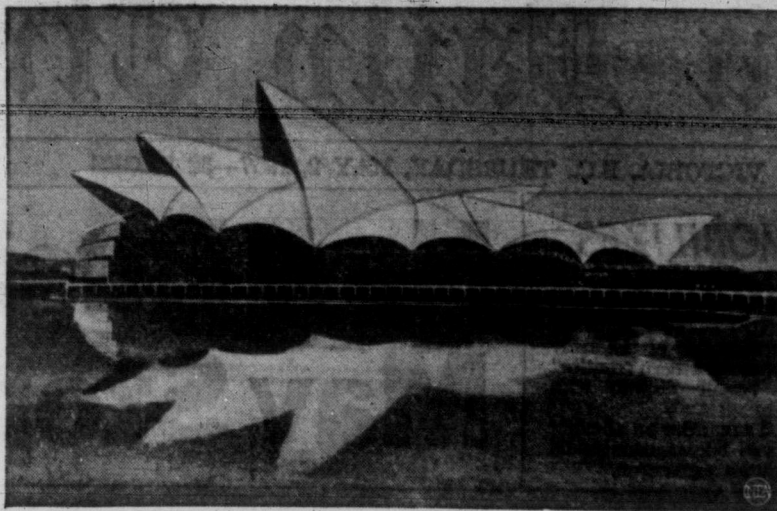

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prospects that the trial of Robert Sommers' slander action against lawyer David Sturdy will proceed on the appointed date of June 3 dimmed today.

Alfred Bull, counsel for Mr. Sommers, said in court of appeal that an application to the Supreme Court of Canada for leave to appeal an order of Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan allowing Mr. Sturdy to inspect bank accounts will not be heard until sometime in June.

The long court vacation will prevent trial sittings during July and August, and indications are that the case will not be tried until September or October.

Premier Bennett Opens Kelowna Plywood Plant

KELOWNA (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett Wednesday officially opened a new $1,500,000 plywood plant in Kelowna. The factory was built by S. M. Simpson Ltd., one of the largest lumber operators in the B.C. interior.

AUSSIE AUDITORIUM—This is the prize-winning design in the worldwide contest for a new State Opera House for Sydney, Australia. Selected from 222 entries, the spectacular, imaginative design, described as "white sails billowing in the sunset," is the work of 38-year-old architect Joern Utzon, of Hellebaek, Denmark. The auditorium is to seat 3,000 to 3,500 people, with a smaller concert hall for 1,200, and a lecture room for up to 200. Utzon has been awarded the top prize of $11,250 for his design. —(NEA.)

U.S. Marines Right at Home Amid Belly-Dancing Lebanese

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP) — It was difficult to tell today who was getting a bigger kick out of the U.S. Sixth Fleet's visit to the Middle East — Marines on shore liberty or their Lebanese hosts.

Lt.-Col. Andrew I. Lyman, of camp LeJeune, N.C., said his troops found Beirut like Las Vegas with a touch of Paris and the Lebanese people as cordial as they could be.

"The boys have had a great time admiring that honorable institution of belly dancing in the nightclubs here," Lyman said. "But we still have some pretty good belly dancing back in Boston."

Maj. Robert Hillard Barrow, of St. Francisville, La., said the Marines were having such a good time here they did not regret having their six-day liberty in Italy cancelled when the fleet got sudden sailing orders last week. One-third of the 1,500 Marines with the fleet have been allowed in Beirut each day from noon to 11 p.m. Cabarets scheduled earlier shows "and most elaborate" — so the leathernecks could see them before returning to quarters. Barrow said he went into one nightclub and had two drinks but the owner refused payment, saying they were on the house.

Eisenhower Defends Foreign Aid Policy

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Eisenhower made a strong plea Wednesday against cutting foreign aid funds, and said: "Let's not throw away one of the engines of the ship of state."

He was speaking informally to members of the National Council of the League of Women Voters, who called on him at the White House. Eisenhower said he would like to go out of office in 1960 with "an even bigger tax cut" than in 1954.

But he said that all he would like to accomplish in the field of economy and tax reductions came back finally to the problem of foreign policy.

Some Congress members are trying to reduce the president's record peacetime budget and have made foreign aid one of their main targets.

CHARLES R. ALLISON

Liquor Bottle Fight Led To Killing

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Robert Allison, 30-year-old factory worker who gave himself up to police in Vancouver, B.C., and allegedly confessed to the slaying of an ex-convict in Mendham Township, N.J., was flown here Wednesday night in the custody of two New Jersey police.

Joseph Logan, investigator, said Allison will be kept in Morristown, N.J., jail overnight and probably will be arraigned on a murder charge either today or Friday. He said that Allison waived extradition proceedings in Vancouver.

According to police, Allison confessed to shooting Claude Vallachi, 48, in a one-room bungalow after an argument over a bottle of liquor. Vallachi's body, the head and hands severed with an axe, was discovered April 17 by police.

Allison, according to police, travelled west by bus. He surrendered to police in Vancouver April 27, shortly after arriving there from Seattle.

The fire was in the press-room of The Gazette, one floor below Brinkman.

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — What do you do when a mallard lays a dozen duck eggs in your forward bunk?

That problem demands a practical solution from Robert McAll, master of the good sloop Merrimac. Any day now the eggs may start hatching, and McAll hasn't the slightest idea how a duckling is going to manage to scramble up two feet to the porthole that mama mallard has been using as a private door.

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Lucille Wilson painted the fence posts in her yard white. Then she noticed that a fire hydrant with a "sickening looking yellow" top clashed with them.

She called the fire department and was told the top of the hydrant had to be yellow because of a code the department used to classify hydrants.

But it was too late. Mrs. Wilson and her paintbrush already had made a better match of the hydrant and the posts.

The fire department sent a man out today to restore the original color scheme.

BLAST KILLS INFANT — SMITHERS — Fourteen-month-old Ronald Imrie died from burns received when the vapor rub with which he was being treated for a cold caught fire.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Cecil Imrie, was holding his head over a pan of vapor rub heating on the stove in the kitchen of their home, when the liquid exploded in flames.

U.S. Air Force Secretary's Claim Renews Argument on Carrier Vulnerability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Secretary Donald Quarles says a single hydrogen-headed guided bomb launched by a plane could knock out a naval task force.

An air force general, Nathan Twining, claims that high-level attack by a single squadron of heavy or medium jet bombers dropping nuclear bombs could produce the same result.

Publication today of testimony by United States defence leaders before a congressional appropriations sub-committee revealed that committee questioning stirred renewed argument about the vulnerability of carrier task forces.

HARD TO FIND

Charles Thomas, until recently secretary of the navy, and Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, testified that a carrier force would be difficult to locate in the open sea. Even if it were located, they said, missile and counter-missile defences would give it a high degree of protection.

The testimony was given in January and February — some time before high-level changes headed both Quarles and Twining for new jobs where they will be expected to be neutral in such arguments. Quarles is to become deputy secretary of defence, Twining chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Quarles, in his testimony, conceded that missiles and fighter planes would put up an effective defence for a carrier task force. But he said, "If you project this into the era when bombers will approach such a force with an air-to-surface missile that might have, say, a 50 to 100-mile range, and give that missile either target-seeking qualities itself or control from another plane I do not know of anything that could be done to prevent that missile, if it were armed with a megaton warhead, from knocking out a carrier task force, depending on how the force was deployed."

"NEAR MISS" ENOUGH
When Twining was asked how ships manoeuvring could be at risk, he replied: "With bombers using atomic weapons." How close would the bombs need to come? "A couple of miles. A 'near miss' works in this case. You can miss them quite a ways and still sink them or put them out of commission."

One of the questioners, in asking navy officials about the ability of ships to survive attack, said he wanted to be sure "we are not spending $300,000,000 just to provide a good target for the enemy" in approving construction of an atomic-powered supercarrier.

Thomas declared that in the Second World War Japan lost between 12,000 and 15,000 planes in attempts to sink American carriers, but succeeded in sending down only one.

Red Cross Commissioner Denies Aid Withheld From Refugee Camp

VANCOUVER (CP) — Reports that the Red Cross at its higher levels is not supporting volunteer workers at the Abbotsford Hungarian refugee camp were denied today by C. C. Scott, British Columbia division commissioner of the Red Cross.

Mr. Scott said: "We are doing everything we should do in assisting the government whose responsibility it is to feed, clothe and shelter the Hungarians until they get employment."

The complaints were aired in a Vancouver newspaper Wednesday by reporter Jean Howarth. Red Cross workers at Abbotsford were reported to have said the refugee camp is too big for a small local unit, but headquarters just tell us it is not a disaster and not an emergency.

Defence Minister Ralph Campney declined comment on the report that Abbotsford camp is "bursting at the seams".

Beck Ordered To Re-appear Before Probe

'Further Derogatory Evidence' Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters boss Dave Beck of Seattle was directed Wednesday to appear before the Senate rackets committee in a week for further interrogation.

The committee said it has "further derogatory evidence" to present concerning Beck's alleged "use of the power of the union to further his own financial interest."

Chairman John McClellan said he expected to call eight or 10 other witnesses.

"It is very important that any information the committee has regarding Mr. Beck's misuse of union funds, or misuse of his position as president of the largest union in the United States, should be developed publicly," McClellan said.

ON TRIAL

Beck faces an AFL-CIO executive council trial May 20 on charges that he has brought the labor movement into disrepute. He announced Wednesday the teamsters union executive board will appear in a body before an AFL-CIO disciplinary group Monday to demand a bill of particulars on charges that corrupt elements dominate the organization.

ARMY TRANSPORT TRAGEDY

32 Die in Crash Of British Plane

BLACKBUSHE, Eng. (Reuters) — Thirty-two persons, including a mother and her two children, died in a Viking charter plane when it crashed in flames in a pine forest Wednesday night just after taking off from Blackbushe airport 30 miles southwest of London.

Only four badly burned men were rescued from the burned-out wreckage. One died later. The others were in critical condition today.

The plane was carrying 25 soldiers, two war department civilians, the mother and her two children and a crew of five, including a stewardess. It was bound for Tripoli.

Two minutes after leaving the airport the twin-engine Viking radioed that it was in trouble.

An engine had failed, and in the airport control tower an SOS message was received asking permission to land. Then contact was lost with the plane.

It circled the airport perimeter, then a red flash stabbed the dark sky. Flames enveloped the aircraft as it crashed into the woods, smashing down 60 trees and setting others afire.

Burnaby Secreds Nominate Lawyer For By-Election

BURNABY (CP) — John Milne, 40-year-old lawyer, has been picked by Social Credit here to contest a forthcoming provincial by-election. Date of the by-election, to fill the seat left vacant by the death of veteran CCF'er Ernest Winch, has not been set but Premier Bennett has stated it will not be until after the June 10 federal election.

The Centralist

THE SOVEREIGN ISSUE OF the national election, according to Premier Frost of Ontario—Mr. Diefenbaker's most powerful ally—is quite simple. The nation, he said the other day, must reject a Liberal Government of "centralization, born in wartime and ingrained into governmental thinking."

Mr. Diefenbaker, who must satisfy Mr. Frost and Ontario even if Conservative policies antagonize other provinces, reiterates this attack on "centralization." He would hand back to the provinces their rightful powers, long usurped by a rapacious central government. He would also hand them vast sums of money from the national treasury—that is to say from the taxpayers who live within the provinces.

All right then, if "centralization" is the great evil of our times in Canada, observe how Mr. Diefenbaker would decentralize.

He proposes, to begin with, a large and costly expansion of social services. Apart altogether from the merits of this policy, and its cost to the taxpayers, it is a centralist policy. It would be paid for by the central government which, paying the piper, would call the tune.

Secondly, he would overhaul all federal labor legislation, seek to make provincial labor legislation uniform throughout the country and place inter-provincial industries under a single jurisdiction—a federal jurisdiction. There may be great merits in this policy, though it is always difficult to make provincial labor or other laws uniform, but essentially it is a centralizing policy.

Next, Mr. Diefenbaker says he would try to stem the tide of American economic penetration by a policy of "Canada First," which he does not elaborate. But however such a policy were enforced to stimulate Canadian development and minimize American control over it, the agency would have to be the central government.

Finally, Mr. Diefenbaker is making a strong drive for farm votes, especially in Ontario, as he has every right to do. He promises to raise the farmers' income by a system of "parity" prices under which the farmers would be subsidized when necessary. Who would pay the subsidies? Who would take the next step, already taken in the United States, to control farm output when it produced unmanageable food surpluses? No one, of course, but the central government.

All Mr. Diefenbaker's promises involve more centralized power (and more spending) in Ottawa. Some people may think that the present Government has gone too far and too fast in centralization—a trend common to every democratic country in the world and no doubt an inevitable part of our present social trend as demanded by the public. But Mr. Diefenbaker and the Conservative Party would go much further and much faster along that road.

Bring Emily Carr Home

THE GENEROUS OFFER OF the Emily Carr Foundation—to share its large collection of the world-famous Victoria artist's canvases between this city and Vancouver, if a fireproof Art Gallery wing is built here—demands action.

This is Victoria's chance to bring Emily Carr home—to put on display for our own people and for our visitors the work of the most distinguished creative artist the capital has produced.

To our shame, Victoria's gallery is alone among those of important

Canadian centres in lacking a single Emily Carr original. For artistic, historic and cultural reasons, this deficiency should be overcome. It can be if suitable quarters are built.

The provision of such facilities deserves top priority. The Emily Carr Foundation has stated its position clearly. It is willing to supply the exhibits provided they are given adequate protection. That is a sensible attitude.

The Foundation's stipulation—modest in the extreme—should be met.

More Trade With China

BRITAIN HAS TOLD THE United States that it intends to extend its trade with China. Britain sees no virtue in neglecting opportunities to expand its markets by adhering to United States sentiment in this regard—particularly when current restrictions are being ignored by other trading nations and are not effective for other reasons.

The United Kingdom's position is strengthened by the knowledge that some goods sold to Russia, but withheld from China, have merely been passing through Russia to the Chinese market.

That point has been proved abundantly to Britons by a request from China to British industries for spare parts of diesels sold to the Soviets four years ago. Obviously Russia, the ostensible purchaser, merely acted as go-between on the deal.

The futility of denying China goods which may be sold to Russia is obvious.

Beyond that, the British industrialists are profoundly unhappy over a system of trade which opens the vast potential of China's markets not only to Russia and its satellites, but also to such countries as Japan, France and West Germany—and leaves Britain to stand idle on the sidelines.

"It does not make sense," says Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, "that people who are on short time (in Britain) should not be allowed to sell to China what they are allowed to sell to the Soviet Union."

The situation is clear enough. Britain lives by trade. The market potential of a country containing roughly a quarter of the world's population provides an invitation hard for any trader to refuse. When the fence erected around it for ideological reasons is so full of holes that other western nations can drive through, Britain sees no reason to stay outside.

The United States has shown some recognition of this point. While it still refuses to permit American trade with Red China, it has eased efforts to restrain its allies. At any event, the United States could not call the tune for American friends unless it reached and maintained agreement with them on the issue.

With Their Eyes on the Skies

ACROSS THIS COUNTRY THE Air Cadet League of Canada is observing a special week to mark the sixteenth anniversary of the league's founding.

In many parts of the nation, the period provides an opportunity for squadrons to seek financial support. Such is not the case in Victoria. The local group, 89 Kinsmen Squadron, is financed by the Victoria Kinsmen Club.

Damp Climate for Fiery Cross

REPORTS THAT THE KU KLUX Klan is moving into Britain are more spectacular than impressive. An agency of supreme intolerance in racial affairs is seeking a following among people whose tradition is a shining example of tolerance.

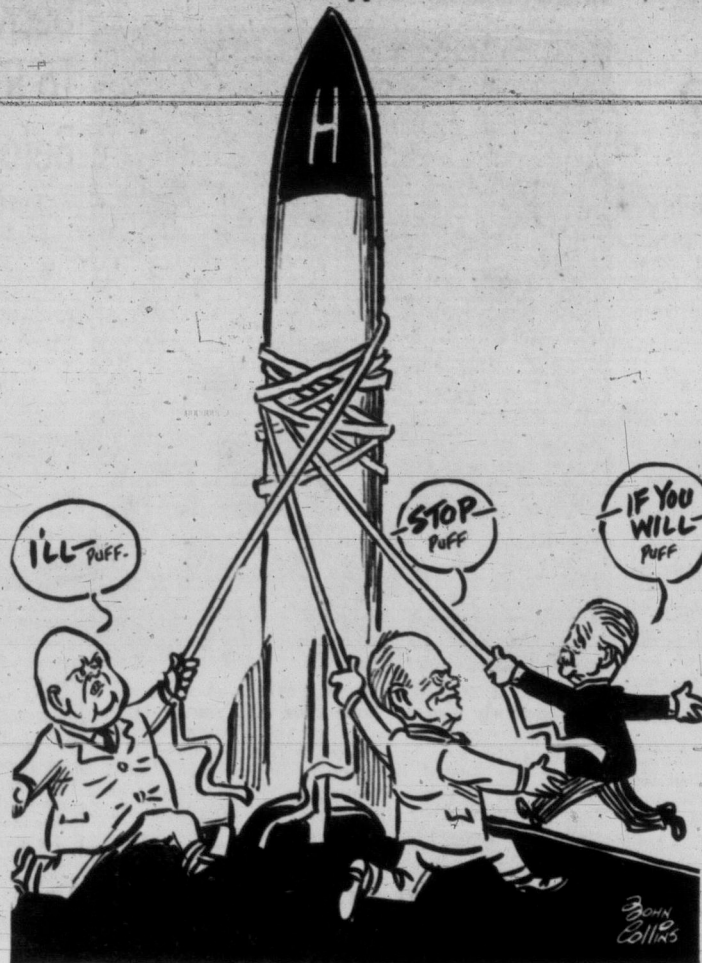

Quite conceivably the K.K.K. will find some adherents in Britain. Most crackpot organizations can, Hyde Park thrives on them. And, it should be noted, too, that Britain today is becoming conscious of a color problem as more immigrants from former colonies arrive in the United Kingdom.

The Ku Klux Klan will be no decoration to the British scene. But Britain has survived others. Moseley came and Moseley languished. The communists are probably still denouncing monarchy from their soap boxes in open air forums where their supply of wind finds adequate diffusion.

Britain has a way of dealing with such elements. The climate, we think, is a little damp for the fiery cross.

LOOSE ENDS

It Ain't Necessarily So

ONE does not have to be a partisan to observe with admiration the superior showmanship of the Opposition parties in the national election campaign.

Hutchison mastered the higher arts of the theatre.

Strangely enough, it is in staid old Toronto that the contemporary techniques of showmanship produce their best effects. As Mr. Bennett proved there the other day, you can make even a rather dismal and disappointing affair look like the Wave of the Future if you hop it up enough. But Mr. Bennett, for all his high talents, is still an amateur beside the Conservative professionals.

IN case the reader imagines that my friendship for the Conservative Party makes me exaggerate its virtues I quote from The Toronto Globe and Mail, a reliable newspaper given to factual reporting.

It opens its account of Mr. Diefenbaker's big meeting in Massey Hall as follows: "Amid seepages which at times assumed the air of a New Year's Eve celebration, 2,500 wildly enthusiastic Conservative supporters jammed historic old Massey Hall last night for their date with John Diefenbaker."

THAT is the sort of thing our politics have long needed—a New Year's Eve Party, even if it is a few months late. And apparently it was a real New Year's Eve party, too, for, according to The Globe and Mail, "cow bells, horns, rattles and cheers matched the rise and fall of Mr. Diefenbaker's voice."

There were speeches and songs, bands and banners, placards and politicians—and politicians and politicians—and floor demonstrations in the style of an American convention.

That is what a Canadian likes to see. As Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized in his speech, Canada's resources are being sold out to the Americans by a Government which inhibits, in his original phrase, an "ivory tower."

BUT if we don't want American capital we certainly could use some good American ideas and lively folk customs, like the American political convention, the cowbells, horns, rattles and the New Year's Eve party. For a New Year's Eve Party is much more interesting than a political party.

One is especially gratified to read that the Conservatives have also found their voice and can articulate the deepest instincts of the Canadian race which, until now, has been almost totally dumb. Thus The Globe and Mail:

"Rapidly the auditorium filled as TV's Joel Aldred guided a program which included the 48th Pipers, organist Kathleen Stokes and singer Frank Palmer presenting specially written lyrics to Happy Days Are Here Again, Hallelujah, and It Ain't Necessarily So."

THESE are fine old songs breathing the soul of Canada. Franklin Roosevelt's theme song in 1932 was "Happy Days Are Here Again" but the Democrats won't grudge it to us. And I can think of no accompaniment to a political speech more accurate than "It Ain't Necessarily So."

Most striking of all, to the scholar of symbolism, was the final climax of the meeting, timed to a split second.

In order to create the exact effect of denouement Mr. Diefenbaker had to abandon a large part of his written speech at a certain moment to make way for something more substantial. At a prearranged signal, he ceased speaking and thousands of toy balloons were launched into the air. It must have been a splendid sight, a balloon ascension on the grand scale.

THESE proceedings in Toronto under Social Credit and Conservative auspices have a historic importance much more permanent than a passing election campaign. They show that at last the dull wit and sodden spirit of Canada is beginning to catch the magic of our more progressive American neighbors.

When a major political meeting, staged (that is the exact word) by the Conservative Party turns out to be like an American convention or a New Year's Eve Party, on the word of a respected Conservative organ, The Globe and Mail—why then something deep and fundamental is happening in Canada.

When this happens, of all places, in Toronto, clearly the nation is awakening from a long spiritual sleep to the sound of "cow bells, horns rattles and cheers," to the accompaniment of balloons, to the joy of all Canadian patriots.

Theme Song?

From now till June 10th the siren voices of politicians, and would-be, will be wooing electors for their favors. For the exercise of this franchise (a liberty unknown under Dictators) the confessions of politically-seasoned veteran N. B. James, late MLA in the Sacred Government of Alberta, provides both wit and wisdom in the following:—

How dear to my heart are the grand politicians

Who constantly strive for the popular votes, Indulging in platitudes, trite repetitions,

And time-honored bromides surrounded with quotes, Though equally verbose opponents assail them

With bitter invective, they never can quell

The Lord of the Buncombe which never will fail them—

The old hokum buncombe we all know so well.

Chorus—

The old hokum buncombe, the iron-clad buncombe

The moss-covered buncombe we all know so well.

They aim to make friends of the laboring classes.

The trust of the people is sacred to them.

They swear that they're slaves to the will of the masses,

Forgetting their bosses, these brave party men.

They rave with a vehemence truly terrific,

There isn't a doubt that they cannot dispel

By quoting the planks of their platforms beatific,

Each filled with the buncombe we all know so well.

Plea for Help

Would you be so kind as to insert in your paper this appeal from a church in the East End of London?

All our buildings, i.e. church, church institute, vicarage, and clergy house, were much damaged during the 1939-1945 war. Over and above the amount received from the government War Damage Commission, the parish has raised more than £4,000, and we are now faced with an extra expense of £3,500 for further repairs to the buildings, and the thorough cleaning and overhauling of the organ.

A great work is going on in the parish particularly among the young. We are building up character in the citizens of tomorrow.

Our people give generously considering their means, but this additional burden is more than the parish itself can bear unaided.

Thus we have to appeal to friends outside, who value the church's faithful witness.

Any assistance given will be greatly appreciated, and help in the task to which we have set our hand.

In One Man's Hand

I wonder if your readers ever consider or give thought to what is a new and entirely unique situation involving the whole earth and all human and animal life on it.

I refer, of course, to the fact that just one man—President Eisenhower—has in his hand that absolute power, to be requested by any king or leading statesman, give that fatal order to resort to use of arms that in the opinion of science and other prominent persons would result in the absolute obliteration of at least our present civilization, if not ultimately of all human and animal life.

The present is the first occasion in earth's history when the life and destiny of all forms of life on earth depended upon the will or slant of opinion of just one person. President Eisenhower has that power. Has he the physical and mental capacity to handle such power in the world's best interest?

'Fancy Religions'

In your issue of April 24 it is reported that Archbishop Harold E. Sexton deplores the flocking of people to "fancy religions."

His Grace gives no guidance as to which are the "fancy religions" to which he does not want his flock to stray.

The Archbishop would do well to consider what other businesses do when their turnover grows less and their customers leave them. They do not try to win back customers by decrying the more modern goods of their competitors. They discard old models that were assembled in the days when technical knowledge was less, and develop new lines of merchandise that suit the modern and educated ideas and demands of the present day public.

Perhaps some of the "fancy religions" are giving teaching more in keeping with the greater knowledge that the public now has.

MODERN THOUGHT.

FROM AMMAN, JORDAN

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Meaning of the Drama

IN the hollow calm that has been imposed on this little country by the forces under King Hussein's command, it is possible to begin to think a little about the real meaning of the drama that has been played out here.

The trappings of the drama have been story book stuff—the young King, beleaguered and betrayed but riding out the storm with incomparable dash and courage; the plotters, at first so overwhelmingly confident and then so eagerly ready to flee in all directions; the picturesque Arab Legion, torn by intrigues and divided loyalties but rallying to the young king in the very nick of time. No news story in this reporter's sadly long experience has been quite like this.

But behind these splendid trappings, there is the drama's real meaning. It is an immensely important meaning. Indeed, as a turning point in Middle Eastern politics this wild drama in little Jordan may later be remembered as equal in significance to the Suez crisis itself. And in order to place the grimly practical inner meaning of the Jordan drama in its proper context, one must begin with the Suez crisis.

The Suez crisis was touched off—Egypt's President Nasser was moved to nationalize the canal—by the calculated humiliation so incomprehensibly administered by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in the matter of the Aswan Dam.

Soviet Support

But the Soviet role was vastly more important than the American role. Nasser gained the courage to nationalize the canal from the actuality of Soviet arms and the promise of Soviet support. Realistically regarded, the final outcome of the Suez crisis was the high-water mark to date of Soviet political success in the strategically vital Middle East.

Soviet policy here, it must be understood, is not to promote Communism for Communism's sake. Soviet Middle Eastern policy is to use Nasser-style Arab nationalism as a dagger to strike at the oil-juggler of the Western Alliance.

The final outcome of the Suez crisis was the transformation of Nasser's shameful military defeat in Sinai into a political victory of extreme brilliance. The political victory seemed to provide the ideal opportunity for the next move along the road charted by both Nasser and the Kremlin, for their very different reasons. And this next move was to be a coup in Jordan.

Jordan's extreme Arab nationalists, who are controlled from Cairo; Jordan's small but well-organized Communist party, controlled by the Kremlin but placed under Nasser's command, and the disloyal elements within King Hussein's government were all to combine together. In combination, they were to hand over Jordan to Egypt.

The coup very nearly came off too. Nasser was within a hair's breadth of gathering up little Jordan as you might gather up a wind-fall in an autumn orchard.

If the coup in Jordan had come off, the way would have been ideally prepared for an attempt to subvert the Iraqi government of King Hussein's cousin, King Faisal.

Thus the first of the oil-producing Arab lands, where you find the real daggers the Soviets want the Arab nationalists to use against the West, would have come under Egyptian domination.

Next Step

With Iraq lost, in turn, it would have been time for Nasser to think of the oil-rich Gulf Coast Sheikdoms, dominated by the British and, last but not least, Saudi Arabia allied with the United States.

And with Egyptian-dominated governments installed in all these vital regions, the time would have been ripe to drive the dagger straight home into the West's exposed jugular.

That was the delightful prospect until the failure of the coup in Jordan changed every calculation. It failed not only because of King Hussein's energy and nerve. It also failed because King Saud of Saudi Arabia had noticed the important role being played by the Communists in Jordan, and had begun to be aware that his own fate was already being prepared.

If a stable, independent government can finally be organized in Jordan, the change of calculations will be radical indeed. Instead of pro-Western Iraq being imperilled, the example of events in Jordan will seriously imperil Egypt's satellite government in Syria, with its heavy load of fellow travellers.

Then the tide will have turned in deadly earnest. But it will be many months yet before anyone can say that young King Hussein, with all his verve, can possibly organize a stable, independent regime in this tormented, infiltrated little nation.

Busy Week

THIS will have to be a disjointed kind of column because it's been a disjointed, silly sort of week.

But, between the various excitements and commotions, I've managed to do some casual reading.

I've been re-reading George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" because it's years since I first read it, and our LP record of "My Fair Lady" made me want to read it again. It's added greatly to my enjoyment of the record. I've seen how the original dialogue was used in the formation of the lyrics. I'd forgotten, too, that the Preface to "Pygmalion" is concerned with Shaw's pet enthusiasm, a phonetic alphabet. And, from his will, we all know nowadays how he felt about it.

The LP record has given us hours of pleasure, and, as far as I'm concerned, has been a welcome change from Elvis Presley and Harry Belafonte, since I'm not the calypso-type myself, and what with the combined roles of farmer's wife, column writer and mother to three teen-agers, I hardly need Elvis to make me all shook up!

I've also listened fairly often to the record of Dimitri Tiomkin's music from the sound track of the movie, "Giant." As I missed the movie, the music was new to me. Nor did I know that Tiomkin had won Academy Awards for the music of "High Noon" and for his scoring of "The High and the Mighty."

(I often wonder which films my young will remember best when they grow up. Which films really impressed you when you were young? Quickly, those I remember best were Rene Clair's "Sous Les Toits de Paris," Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night," Edna May Oliver in "Ladies of the Jury," Sylvia Sydney in "Street Scene," and last but not least, Marlene Dietrich and Emil Jannings in "The Blue Angel." I wonder what I'd think of them if I were suddenly to see them all again?)

For fun, I've been re-reading parts of Monica Dickens' novel, "Mariana," and I laughed again at her description of the riders in London's Rotten Row—"old men shaking up their livers, and young girls shaking up their bosoms." I love that. It's such a cheerful description of something we all notice, though a lot of us pretend we don't.

Somehow, I can't imagine a Canadian writing about the female bosom in that light descriptive fashion. We'd either exult or disapprove. Because in North America the bosom is taken very seriously. Just part of our adolescence, I guess. But we'll grow up in time.

A friend who sent me a clipping of an article in The Atlantic has made me think of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale. Not that I want to think of Dr. Peale, but these days it's quite hard to escape him. The writer of the article doesn't care for Dr. Peale, either.

The new faith (in America), he says, has little to do with the old-fashioned faith as Saint Paul conceived it—the faith of a contrite Christian humbly imploring the mercy and guidance of the Almighty to fight off sin and temptation. That was a negative faith, he says. Nowadays we must be positive, positive that if we have faith we can go right out and get just what we want, even if all we want is to make a better go of our business.

And that, I think, sums up Dr. Peale very nicely.

YOUR HEALTH

The Insane Man In Court

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

As I said recently, I often marvel at the curious ways in which our courts deal with the problems of the insane. If a pretty blonde shoots to death a man who changed his mind and refused to marry her, there is always a chance that an "expert" will testify that when she pulled the trigger she did not know right from wrong and did not realize the consequences of her act. Under these circumstances, she can be judged temporarily insane, and then she can be put in a mental hospital until things blow over. But if a person who has always been so queer that his family, his friends and his townfolk have looked on him as crazy, commits a particularly atrocious and senseless murder, he is very likely to be hanged forthwith. The community will demand that he be "punished."

I remember an eccentric young man of low intelligence who married a sweet girl and took her out to his father's ranch for their honeymoon. A few days later he blew a big hole through her with a shotgun, and then went up the creek to catch some trout. When asked why he had done it, he said because the Voices had told him to.

The people in the community were so outraged at this "brutal and pointless" murder, and at the trial they were so angered because the lad showed not the slightest regret for what he had done, that he was quickly hanged. As I remember, the defence decided that with public sentiment so strong against the man it was hardly worth while to present the facts that would have shown that he had never been quite sane.

I fear that in some courts today the best evidence as to a man's psychosis, such as would have to be given by relatives and friends, could be ruled out as not coming from qualified psychiatrists. I do know that a while ago, when it was essential to show that a testator was so blind he could hardly get around, his best friends, when on the stand, were not allowed to mention this. The opposing attorney's objection that these friends were not qualified eye-specialists was upheld! I did not question the judge's desire to be fair, but I was distressed to see that about all he was doing was to umpire the curious game that was being played by the two opposing attorneys. So far as I could see, he made no effort to find out what the case was all about.

THE "MAD BOMBER"

I was led to write this on reading about the man in New York, who, for a long time, was exploding bombs in public places. His reason for endangering the lives of hundreds of innocent people who were strangers to him was that when his lungs gave him trouble he was satisfied that the people for whom he had been working were in some way culpable.

His behavior was so typically that of a paranoiac that I doubt if one could find many psychiatrists who would feel the need even for interviewing him before declaring him insane.

But now I read that a judge says he must be tried. Why? According to the newspaper account, the court must go through the ancient game of seeming to determine whether, when the man was planting a bomb (one particular bomb), he knew right from wrong, and realized the consequences of his act!

The fact is ignored that no one can ever determine such a thing definitely, and even if one could, there wouldn't be any sense in doing it. No psychiatrist, when judging of the sanity of a man in his office, worries about his knowledge of right and wrong. What the doctor wants to know is how the fellow has been behaving and thinking, and what reasons he gives for his peculiar behavior. In judging of a man's sanity, I always depend much on what a man's relatives think about him. Why? Because many a psychotic man can fool many people into accepting him as sane, but seldom can he fool his wife and his other close relatives.

Why cannot the judge just ask the eminent psychiatrists who have seen this bomb-exploder and who know about his behavior if he has been behaving in a way absolutely characteristic of a certain type of insane man? If he has, why waste time trying him?

HEREDITARY DIFFERENCES

We all know that certain men and women, from childhood, are very active and wide-awake. They are curious about most things; they want to explore any place into which they have been put; and some, because of their constant curiosity, eventually become able research workers. Other people from childhood on have very little interest in their surroundings; they don't care to explore much; they are not curious about anything, and hence they could never be of much use in a research laboratory.

Now, I read an article by William R. Thompson, in which he tells of the striking differences in the "exploratory activity" of a number of strains of mice bred in the laboratory. Some mice, when put into a new box, will immediately run all over the place and explore it thoroughly, while mice from another strain will just sit quietly. Since in such experiments the factor of environment is held constant, these differences in curiosity are evidently inherited and hereditary in nature.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Outwitting Wind Can Be Lots of Fun

To have a garden flattened by a strong wind is not a humorous condition, but to outwit the wind can be a lot of fun.

In exposed locations where pole beans and other plants are ready to pick, the old teepee method of growing often proves successful.

The teepee is started by setting a six-foot post firmly into the soil, and driving pegs 48 inches apart in a ten-foot circle around the post.

A light wire is strung from each peg to the top of the post, and a pea or bean seed planted on each side of the pegs, two plants being trained to a single wire.

The teepee offers much less resistance to the wind than a long row of the same height, and the structure is well braced in all directions.

Noted Toronto Lawyer, Col. A. T. Hunter Dies

TORONTO (CP).—Col. Alfred Taylor Hunter, 91, until last year assistant registrar at Osgoode Hall, died Wednesday. A well-known Toronto lawyer, he was the author of several law books and of the history of the York Rangers. During the First World War he served with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at Vimy Ridge. Survivors include a son, Col. J. W. G. Hunter, Liberal member of Parliament for Toronto Parkdale for the last two sessions.

Scouts to Poll Ticklish Subject — Bare Facts of Shorts Under Study

OTTAWA (CP).—Canada's top boy scout executive, Fred J. Finlay, is after the bare facts of a ticklish situation—should scouts wear shorts or long trousers? The issue will be settled in a cross-Canada poll to be taken "both within and outside the movement," Mr. Finlay said in an interview. He is chief executive commissioner at Canadian Boy Scouts headquarters here.

Scout leaders and parents alike will be questioned in the poll to determine whether there really is any objection to the shorts, now mandatory uniform at all scouting functions. Just back from a two-week, 4,200-mile tour of the Northwest Territories, and with his desk cluttered by details of Canada's part in the world jamboree in England next August, "the chief," as Mr. Finlay is known, isn't sure when the poll will be launched. It may not start for a year or so.

Questions on other aspects of the scouting movement will also be put to parents and scout leaders, but shorts will be the main issue.

"Scouting is 50 years old and like everything else, has to keep up to date," said Mr. Finlay, who joined the movement when his oldest son joined the Wolf Cubs.

"We have a lot of people saying boys are leaving the movement because they have to wear short pants. They also say leaders won't join for the same reason."

"We have just as many people saying that's a lot of nonsense. Shorts form part of the universal uniform of scouting but slacks are used in bad weather."

HIRAM WALKER APPOINTMENT

L. M. NORTHCOTT

Manitoba representative for Hiram Walker & Sons Limited since 1941, Mr. Northcott is now in charge of Public Relations for the Western Division of the company, as announced by Gordon N. Money, Western Canada Sales Manager.

Mr. Northcott, popularly known to hockey fans as "Baldy," is widely acquainted in Canadian athletic circles. He played for the Montreal Maroons during the 10 years 1928 to '38, and wound up his professional hockey career with the Chicago Black Hawks in 1939.

"Never felt so comfortable, looked so slim — It's Tip Top's Ivy Influenced Trim Look!"

"Here's a suit that brings me right up to the minute in style. It gives me the slimmer, natural-shouldered look and still leaves me plenty of freedom of movement."

Remember men — you need both style and comfort — and that's exactly what you get in Tip Top's Trim Look.

U.K. Backs Shipowners On Aqaba Use

LONDON (UP).—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said Wednesday the government would back British shipowners who desired to use the Gulf of Aqaba route to Israel in defiance of Arab opposition. Aneurin Bevan had asked whether the government would encourage ships to use the disputed Gulf of Aqaba in view of its position against Suez Canal transit. "It depends on commercial considerations, and if British shipowners and charterers are prepared to use it (the gulf) it is up to them," Lloyd said. "If they decide to go ahead the government will support their use of it."

Re-opening Soon of Hope Nickle Mine

VANCOUVER (CP)—The old Pacific nickel mine near Hope, now owned jointly by Pacific Nickel Mines Ltd. and Newmont Mining Corp., will be reopened shortly.

Col. Victor Spencer, president of Pacific Nickel, made the announcement to shareholders at the annual meeting here.

"A contract for the sale of a large amount of nickel has been consummated at a price substantially higher than the tentative figure of $1 a pound, which was the minimum figure at which we estimated production could be considered," he said.

A concentrator for the property would be built by Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power Co. Granby would also conduct the producing operation.

Col. Spencer said concentrators from the Pacific Nickel operation would probably be shipped to Sherritt Gordon's Fort Saskatchewan refinery.

International Pete Earnings Up 19%

TORONTO (BUP)—International Petroleum Co. Ltd. net earnings for the first three months of 1957 show a 19 per cent increase over the same period last year. Estimated earnings were $11,100,000, equivalent to 77 cents per share, compared to $9,300,000 (64 cents per share) at the same time last year.

D. B. ROGERS

Regina Man Re-Named Canadian Press Head

TORONTO (CP)—R. J. Rankin, former president of The Canadian Press, was elected honorary president Wednesday by his fellow directors of the national news co-operative.

Mr. Rankin is CP member for the Halifax Mail-Star. D. B. Rogers of the Regina Leader-Post, who succeeded Mr. Rankin in the presidency in 1946, was re-elected to that position for a further year.

Officers were chosen by the board after the annual general meeting of members at which newspaper executives and editors from the 10 provinces discussed the affairs of the association, the news partnership through which Canadian dailies exchange the news of their areas. Mr. Rogers reported on the co-operative's position and Gillis Purcell, general manager, on details of the news service.

The annual meeting elected nine directors for two-year terms to complete the 19-man board. Ten directors elected last year continue in office.

Overseas Wheat Shipments Drop

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp drop in overseas wheat exports during the week ended April 17 left Canada's visible wheat supplies standing at 369,591,000 bushels, compared with 369,049,000 a week earlier and 329,857,000 a year before.

Export clearances amounted to 2,377,000 bushels in the week, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Banks Introduce New Account June 3

TORONTO (CP)—A new type of account, called a personal cheque account, will be introduced by Canadian chartered banks June 3.

The new account will be for customers who wish to write cheques on bank accounts and the charge will be 10 cents a cheque, or five cents less than the present 15.

'SURFACE BARELY SCRATCHED'

B.C.'s Oil, Gas Industry Healthy 10-Year-Old Giant

By PETER MURRAY

After only 10 years' growth, British Columbia's oil and natural gas industry will come of age this fall with completion of the Westcoast Transmission gas pipeline.

It was on Nov. 5, 1947, that the first exploration permit was granted by the provincial government in the Peace River district.

One month later, the province's first natural gas well, Peace River No. 1, was discovered.

Four years later, in November, 1951, Pacific Petroleum Ltd., pioneer developers of the area, found oil.

It was this historic discovery which touched off an excited land spree in the Peace River which doubled the acreage under permit.

Today there are 12 producing oil wells and 14 natural gas wells ready for production as soon as distribution systems are completed.

At the end of March a total of 27,970,958 acres in the Peace River were under government permit and lease, compared with 1,861,151 acres in 1948.

Much Land Taken Up

Almost all the land in the area, bounded on the west and southwest by the Rocky Mountain Trench, on the north by the Yukon boundary and the east by the Alberta border, has now been taken up by the oil companies. The job remaining is intensive exploration.

How important will B.C.'s oil industry become? Well, it may soon rank as one of the province's leading basic industries but will never be as great as such oil-producing areas as Alberta, Texas or California.

The future of the industry here is limited by geography. While almost all of Alberta lies over a land structure where oil and natural gas may be found, only the relatively small, top right-hand corner of B.C. is suitable.

There are other districts in the province, such as the "Flathead" near Fernie, where exploration is going ahead but they are minor in importance so far.

All the province's cards are in the Peace River. Pipelines are the key to opening it up.

The Westcoast Transmission line will open new markets for natural gas all over the province, particularly in the concentrated residential and industrial lower mainland.

Some gas flowing through the 670-mile pipeline from Dawson Creek to Vancouver may also be funnelled into the U.S. Pacific Northwest.

At present only four natural gas wells are producing in the Peace River, supplying Dawson Creek, but completion of the pipeline will open up many held in reserve.

Plans are also afoot to construct an oil pipeline from the Peace River to tidewater on the Pacific Coast, possibly at Bella Coola, 300 miles north of Vancouver.

ACT Oils Ltd. of Calgary has already started surveys over the route and at least one more firm is known to be interested in building the pipeline.

The provincial government is keeping close watch on the industry's development.

At the last session of the legislature, amendments were made to existing legislation which creates a regulation and conservation board similar to that in Alberta, and changes the lease and exploration permit tenures.

Work Requirements

Companies in the area pay an annual rental per acre and must carry out certain work requirements.

Both work requirements and rental are on a graduated scale designed to ensure that the land held under exploration permit is actively explored.

Mines Minister Ken Kiernan has stated the two main objectives of government policy:

"The developing and proving of the resource as fast as it is economically practical . . . and the encouragement of wise utilization, consistent with sound conservation."

At the end of the exploration period the company selects up to 50 per cent of the acreage as leaseholds and the remainder becomes Crown reserve, which is then put up for auction.

Producing wells will contribute millions of dollars in royalties to the provincial treasury in the future.

With only 12 wells producing, the government collected $71,000 in royalties in the month of December, 1956.

But by far the greatest amount of revenue to date has come from fees for rentals and Crown reserve sales.

This figure is estimated at $20,000,000 since 1947.

The best gauge for determining exploration activity is the total footage drilled. Last year the figure was 397,566, compared with 54,784 in 1951.

In contrast with other B.C. industries, most of the work is done in the winter and the operations close down in the spring and summer months.

Largest portion of the area under exploration is muskeg and mud and poor road conditions make it impossible to work after the frost has risen. The snowfall is not great.

Much of the current oil interest is centred in the Boundary Lake region, the only area of the province officially declared an oil field so far.

Texaco has six wells producing at Boundary Lake, each with a maximum rate of about 240 barrels a day.

There is evidence to indicate that the Boundary Lake field extends at least 10 miles in a north and south direction immediately adjacent to the B.C.-Alberta border, and roughly 50 miles north and east of Dawson Creek.

Present production is trucked to a refinery at Dawson Creek to supply gasoline and other products to that area.

Production in the Boundary Lake field is now more than 800 barrels a day, bringing $7,600 a month in royalties.

Two areas have been officially declared gas fields—Pouce Coupe and Fort St. John.

Close to Surface

Pouce Coupe is the smaller, but should be a good producer because the structure is comparatively close to the surface and not expensive to drill.

At least five other gas structures are under active development or exploration—East Buick Creek, West Buick Creek, Blueberry Creek, Halfway Creek and Red Creek.

Government officials estimated that the whole Peace River district has a potential of 500,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day "over a substantial period of years."

"It is entirely possible that such a figure represents only a small fraction of the actual potential, which as yet is largely unknown," Mr. Kiernan adds.

Translated into other energy forms, 500,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day represents the same potential as 18,750 tons of coal.

Industry is expected to spend $20,000,000 during 1957 exploring new areas in the Peace River.

This amount does not include expenditure on drilling in semi-proven or proven areas, which the operators are not required to disclose under terms of their permits.

At the end of March, there were 25 big drilling rigs in the area.

In addition, money will be spent on the laying of gathering lines, construction of scrubbing plants and other processing facilities.

Phillips Petroleum Ltd., another big operator in the area, is building a refinery at Taylor Flats which will produce high octane fuel.

Separate from the Peace River development but an important part of the B.C. oil industry, is the treatment of Alberta oil brought to Burnaby through the Trans-Mountain pipeline.

A number of refineries have expanded since the line was finished in 1952 and B.A. Oils has just announced plans to build a new multi-million dollar refinery at Port Moody.

SLATED FOR PRESIDENCY of Canadian Manufacturers' Association, W. H. Evans is president and managing director of Honeywell Controls Ltd., of the Toronto suburb of Leaside. He's a member of the Ontario division of the CMA which is holding its 38th annual meeting in Cornwall, Ont., today. (CP photo.)

Bond Financing Up $24 Million

TORONTO (BUP)—Provincial, municipal and corporation public bond financing in Canada in April was $24 million higher than in April, 1956. Wood, Gundy and Co. said today. It totalled $267,809,000 last month compared with $243,361,531 in April, 1956.

Trans-Mountain, which also distributes petroleum to refineries in Washington State, intends to step up its flow to meet the increasing demand.

Halibut Fishermen End 8-Day Strike

VANCOUVER—A strike of B.C. halibut fishermen ended Wednesday night. The 200-boat halibut fleet will sail at noon Friday for northern waters.

The 1,000 fishermen voted 94 per cent in favor of accepting a package proposal worked out between the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) and the Fishing Vessel Owners' Association.

The strike began a week ago Tuesday over the cost of Echo-sounders and payment for work in preparing boats for sea.

The agreement to end the strike includes the elimination of deductions for the cost of echo-sounders, effective June 15. The union had earlier asked this be made effective from last March 15. Echo-sounders until June will continue to be paid out of the over-all catch of boats. After that, the equipment will be a charge against the boat owner.

It was also agreed that fishermen will continue to work without pay for an eight-hour day before and after the season to prepare and unload boats. Work beyond the eight hours will be payable at time and a half.

MENTAL CENTRE OPENED

VANCOUVER—A $1,000,000 mental health centre, providing daytime treatment of mental disturbances, was opened here Wednesday.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant opened the building at a ceremony attended by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black, Dr. A. M. Gee, provincial director of mental health services, and Dr. Arthur Crease, founder of the province's Crease Mental Clinic.

Dr. F. E. McNair, director of the new centre, said the "trend in the mental field is toward more day hospitals of this type."

MURDER TRIAL

KAMLOOPS—Testimony was given Wednesday that shots were heard outside a cabin at Magna Bay Oct. 9, the day George Allen Thomson, 30, of Chase, B.C., is accused of murdering 26-year-old Wilbur Nichols.

E. L. Burns of Magna Bay testified during the third day of Thomson's murder trial that he was at his home, near the Nichols cabin, when he heard a heavy shot.

He went to the cabin and "I heard some other, lighter shots," Burns said. "I am sure it was about three. I thought I heard a woman shouting for help."

ANIMALS BETTER TREATED THAN JURIES

KAMLOOPS (CP)—A justice of the B.C. Supreme Court implied Wednesday that animals are better treated than juries at the court-house here and in some other provincial centres.

Mr. Justice J. V. Clynne said the law makes provisions so that animals are not confined too long in uncomfortable quarters. There is apparently no such legislation to protect juries, he added.

"Conditions don't exist to ensure comfort for juries in Kamloops, Prince George, Dawson Creek and Vancouver."

R. P. Walrod, told Commissioner E. D. McPhee here that he would welcome such a study.

Mr. McPhee is sole commissioner inquiring into the province's fruit industry.

Mr. Walrod was replying to charges that B.C. Tree Fruits has not met growing competition from Ontario, Quebec and the United States. Growers and packinghouse operators have also said that the selling agency issues insufficient information and fails to develop strong measures against exorbitant wholesaler mark-ups.

BABY BORN IN DEPOT

NEW WESTMINSTER—A Haney woman gave birth to a baby daughter in the New Westminster bus depot.

Mrs. Margaret Steeves, 40, had just arrived at the depot on her way to Royal Columbian Hospital. A nurse assisted in the birth, along with two police constables who were called by the bus driver.

Both Mrs. Steeves and her five-pound 12-ounce daughter were reported to be doing fine in hospital.

MOTORIST NOT GUILTY

VERNON—Nicolas Even, 23, of Rutland was found not guilty Wednesday on a charge of criminal negligence as the assizes closed here.

Even was charged in the traffic death of N. Filatoff last December.

Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker commended the jury on its verdict and said it was a proper one in that the Crown had not established criminal negligence.

Two-Mill Boost In Taxes For Duncan

DUNCAN—City council Wednesday night authorized a two-mill tax boost to cover a $38,000 increase in the city's share of Cowichan District 65 school taxes.

New tax rate is 36 mills. The city must raise $83,958 for schools instead of the $55,795 of last year, thus forcing an increase in the school tax rate from 15.14 to 17.71 mills.

ASSESSMENTS UP

City clerk Gordon Berry told council higher assessments in the city, as ordered by the provincial government last year under assessment equalization regulations, would mean higher taxes this year for many property owners in addition to the two-mill increase.

William Elliott, 24, had his sentence of four years reduced to two years less a day.

Ronald Alphonse, 19, who had been sentenced to four years, was given a term of one year.

It is expected that they will be purchased eventually by mill workers.

Five Proposals For Centenary In Langford Area

LANGFORD—Centennial celebration committee Wednesday night selected five activities as worthy of further discussion and possible adoption during 1958 celebrations.

These ideas will be discussed at the next meeting of the committee May 22, then will be put before a general meeting of residents of the four areas early in June.

Man Killed As Scaffold Collapses

PORT ALICE (CP)—A Vancouver man was killed and another critically injured when scaffolding collapsed and plunged 40 feet to the ground here Tuesday night.

Killed was Ernest Jahn, 28, of 4359 Main Street. In fair condition in hospital here is Don Wong, 25, of 368 East Cordova. He has chest, head and leg injuries.

GRABBED ROPE

The accident occurred when the men were installing equipment in the machine room of a big extension to the Alaska Pine and Cellulose Co. plant.

Jahn was killed when the steel cantilever staging collapsed. Wong grabbed a rope, thus breaking his fall.

To 1 cup of Kraft Mayonnaise, add 1/4 cup of your favorite tomato juice and mix thoroughly. Just one of the exciting dressings you can make with Kraft's "special-beating" Mayonnaise.

Try it with tomato juice, orange juice, cranberry juice, chicken broth, whatever your fancy suggests! There are dozens of intriguing new flavors you can create just by giving Kraft Mayonnaise your own personal touch.

These new dressings never curdle, never separate, never let you down. From the moment you make them, mixtures are smooth as silk and stay that way.

The secret is Kraft's special beating process. It takes more than egg yolks to make a mayonnaise that will mix like this. Only a special beating process—beating extra egg yolks and rich, creamy oils—can give you so smooth a "mixer".

PM Fights Best When Cornered

By KEITH DAVIDSON

CALGARY (BUP) — Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent is something like a fighter.

When stung, he counters well. It was thus at Calgary Wednesday night as it was the night before at Edmonton in his election tour of Sacred Alberta, before entering B.C. today.

His speeches on these two occasions were enlivened by clashes with insistent hecklers.

And the biting comment with which the prime minister repulsed the interference added the fire and brimstone of politicking that appears to be missing from his prepared address.

Wednesday here, he squashed an insistent heckler — a spectacled youth slouching in a balcony seat over the prime minister's head — with rapid-fire answers.

At one stage Mr. St. Laurent was describing why the government felt it was in the nation's interests to force the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline through parliament last year.

The man shouted: "That's how the pipeline got through, eh?"

The prime minister peered up to him, flung his right arm in his direction, and said, "well, perhaps if the honorable gentleman were listening, he would learn something, too."

Later, Mr. St. Laurent was urging Calgary South voters to elect Mayor Don Mackay, a Liberal candidate, to the Commons, when the youth called out: "Is he going to be your yes man?"

After another interruption by the youth, Mr. St. Laurent silenced him for the remainder of the meeting by telling him "you are making yourself tired and I know you are making lots of other people tired."

VICTORIA SATURDAY

Mr. St. Laurent, his daughter, Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, his officials and newsmen were scheduled to make their first stop today at Field.

He will be in Nanaimo and Southern Vancouver Island Saturday and speak on a big rally in Victoria Saturday night.

Social Credit aspirations to govern Canada came under withering fire from the prime minister here.

The nation could never have come so far since confederation if it had been under the "purely regional or special interest party, with incomprehensible theories" that govern Alberta and British Columbia, he said.

Mr. St. Laurent also lashed at United States give-away farm produce policies for the second night in succession.

NO PRICE WAR

He said that while Canada had been able to maintain her share of the world market, this had not been enough to enable the country to dispose of the wheat on the farms of Western Canada.

The Prime Minister said Canada could not match the U.S. program and did not want to "get into a price war with our American friends."

"Our only alternative has been to adopt a very vigorous sales policy," he said, "and we still believe that the Canadian Wheat Board is the best agency to carry out that marketing program."

Sniping at the Sacred party, he said: Canadians generally "could not and, indeed, would not swallow" Social Credit theories for government.

"A Canadian government can

NANAIMO — Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent will spend nearly four hours here Saturday on his way from Vancouver to Victoria.

Accompanied by his sister, Mrs. N. O'Donnell, and Defence Minister Ralph Campney, he will cross Georgia Strait on the yacht Fifer, and will land at 11 a.m. at the

He and his party will be driven to the City Hall for a welcome by Mayor Peter Maffeo, and the signing of the city's book for distinguished guests.

Luncheon will be served at the Plaza Hotel at 12.30 for 400 guests, including members of the East Indian, Chinese, Italian, and-Croatian communities here.

The prime minister is scheduled to speak at 1.15 p.m., and his address will be carried by a loudspeaker to an outside audience in Dallas Square.

naimo Federal Liberal Association, will be chairman. With him will be Frank Wilfert, Liberal candidate for Nanaimo in the June 10 election, and Alfred C. Fillingier, Liberal candidate for Comox-Alberni.

Mr. St. Laurent and his party will leave at 2.30, and will make stops at Ladysmith and Duncan at 3 and 3.35 p.m., respectively. He is scheduled to arrive in Victoria at 5.30 p.m.

PORT ALBERNI—Tenders for the B.C. government section of the Alberni-Tofino Road will be called by June 1, according to John Squire, M.L.A. for Alberni. He said the date was given him by Evan Jones, deputy highways minister. MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., are responsible for the portion of the road west of Sprout Lake, and B.C. SEVEN CITY PLAYERS FACE BARBARIANS HERE

Victoria English rugby enthusiasts received good news Wednesday night when B.C. Rugby Union president, Bob Spray, of Vancouver, announced that seven Victoria players would hold positions on the B.C. All-Star team scheduled to meet Britain's Barbarians at Macdonald Park Wednesday night.

Captaining the B.C. team for the Victoria game is veteran JBAA fullback Frank Gower, who will have team-mate Harry Turner at prop forward and Wanderers' Gary Webster at scrum-half, Ray Calton at stand-off and Paul Beck at wing forward.

Representing Victoria College Vikings on the host club will be hook Stu Smith and tail-up Mike Kaye.

Two ex-Victorians will be playing on the side—John Newton and Jim McWilliams, representatives of Vancouver Meralomas.

Remainder of the team will be made up of Vancouver and UBC players.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

Hard-Boiled Haggerty is the absolute greatest in just about anything you would care to mention. Don't dispute me on this point. Just ask Haggerty. He'll tell you.

Among other things, Hard-Boiled claims to be:
The greatest wrestler in the world.
The best-dressed gentleman in sports.
A genuine lover of The Symphony.
The greatest football player who ever got kicked out of three colleges and two pro teams.

The most eligible bachelor alive.

These are about the only details Haggerty cares to discuss about his life because he detests boasting.

For instance, he won't tell anyone how old he is.

Nor will he reveal how much money he is worth.

It is generally thought that he makes in the neighborhood of $40,000 a year. And that is a nice neighborhood, even for a professional wrestler.

Hard-Boiled, who will be twinking ears with Larry Clarke (of Nashville, Tennessee, Suhy at Memorial Arena tonight, is an outstanding color guy in a sport where color is as essential as tight shorts.

Prefers Finer Things, Like Diamonds

While he makes his living rending bones and shredding flesh, Hard-Boiled likes the finer things of life.

He's wild about diamonds and Cadillacs and he claims that fine music is an integral part of his life.

"A lot of these people who attend symphonies must be passing fans," he says, "cause they really flip when they see of Hard-Boiled come in, all duked up in white tie and tails."

Concerning his football career, Hard-Boiled only wishes the game had been tougher so that his temper would not have seemed so out of place.

He got the boot from three different colleges for being hard to get along with, the last of which was Texas Christian.

There, he came to blows and grief with a team-mate and was pitched off the squad. But not before coach Dutch Meyers groaned sadly, "If Haggerty could control his temper, he would be the greatest tackle in football."

This temper was a tremendous selling point to the pros and the Detroit Lions eagerly embraced him with their hairy arms.

But it happened here, too.

Lions' fatherly and patient coach Bo McMillan, after several wild rhuarbs, traded Haggerty to the Green Bay Packers.

But with the Packers, he caused so many quarrels with his team-mates that he was dealt off to the Chicago Bears.

While at Bears' camp, he decided that football had no future in Hard-Boiled Haggerty and so he started working the tank-towns and one-nighters on the wrestling circuit.

The backwoods couldn't hide this diamond in the rough for long and in no time promoters were standing in line at his door, waving fat contracts.

About this temper, Hard-Boiled says, "I want everyone to know I am no maniac. I have a bad temper but I try to curb it. Lots of people want to quit smoking but can't lose the habit. With me, it's getting mad. I can't seem to stop."

Greets Postman With Water Bucket

Being an advertised tough guy has its drawbacks, Haggerty claims.

"My phone is forever ringing with guys saying, 'Hey, you big meatball, what makes you think you're so tough?'"

"I just give them my address and invite them to drop over. They don't."

"Any time I get a package in the mail, I always soak it in a bucket of water. Mostly, it's presents, but you never know when someone is going to send a bomb."

In this respect, Hard-Boiled has a perfect record. He has never once been blown up.

As a boy of 11 in New York's tougher district, young Donald Haggerty was set upon by three older boys, each of whom he thrashed in succession. He says he has never been afraid of a two-legged man since.

Lee Savold once told Hard-Boiled that if he trained properly, he could be a heavyweight boxing champion.

"Savold wasn't telling me anything I didn't know," Haggerty once challenged Rocky Marciano to a rough and tumble match with no holds or punches barred. It was not accepted.

"Guess Rocky was afraid of me."

As for romance, Haggerty is in love with himself and married to wrestling. He will escort a dolly on occasion but, really, where could he find better company than himself?

BOLD RULER FAVORED

Gen. Duke's Injury Boosts Derby Field

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Ten horses were entered today in the $125,000 added Kentucky Derby as the entry box closed 48 hours before for the first of the triple crown classics Saturday.

Even though he turned up lame with a bad bruise yesterday, Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke, along with stablemate Iron Liege, was named for the mile and one-quarter spectacle.

The others for whom owners were to pay the $250 to pass through the entry box were Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler, Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man, Kerr Stable's Round Table, Clifford Lusk's Federal Hill, T. Alie Grissom's Shan Pac, William S. Miller's Better Bee, Ada L. Rice's Indian Creek, and John L. Appelbaum's Mister Jive.

Mr. Jive joined the field late Wednesday when news of Gen. Duke's injury spread.

The colt, jointly owned by Appelbaum and Vern Martin, was scheduled to arrive at Louisville at 9 a.m. today.

Martin intended to drive all night to be at Louisville when the horse arrived. He wired the entry fee in the event he did not arrive at Churchill Downs before the box closed.

There is a $1,250 starting payment for those horses which actually get to the post. Coupled with the $100 original nomination fee that makes a total cost of $1,600 to run a horse in the Kentucky Derby.

Riding assignments were completed yesterday after a last-minute scramble by Johnny Nerud, trainer of Gallant Man. He had planned to have John Choquette ride the horse but Choquette was given a 10-day suspension by the stewards at Jamaica, Nerud then signed up Willie Shoemaker, who will fly in from California.

ARCARO ON BOLD RULER

Eddie Arcaro, riding in his 18th Kentucky Derby and seeking a sixth win, rides Bold Ruler, who now looms as favorite for the race. John Fitzsimmons, son of trainer Jim Fitzsimmons, filled in an entry blank yesterday and deposited it in the secretary's office. But it did not become effective until today.

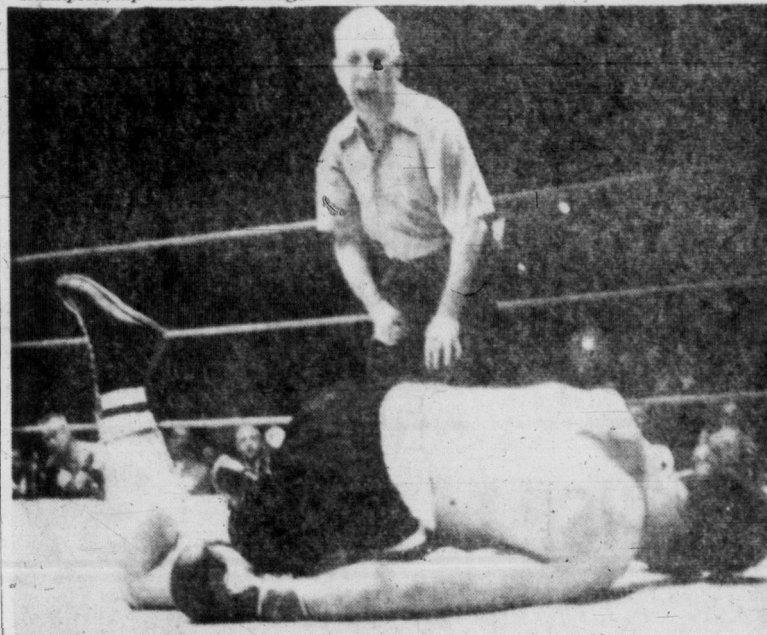

Bill Hartack rides Gen. Duke and Dave Erb rides Iron Liege.

SETTING UP FINAL SHOT

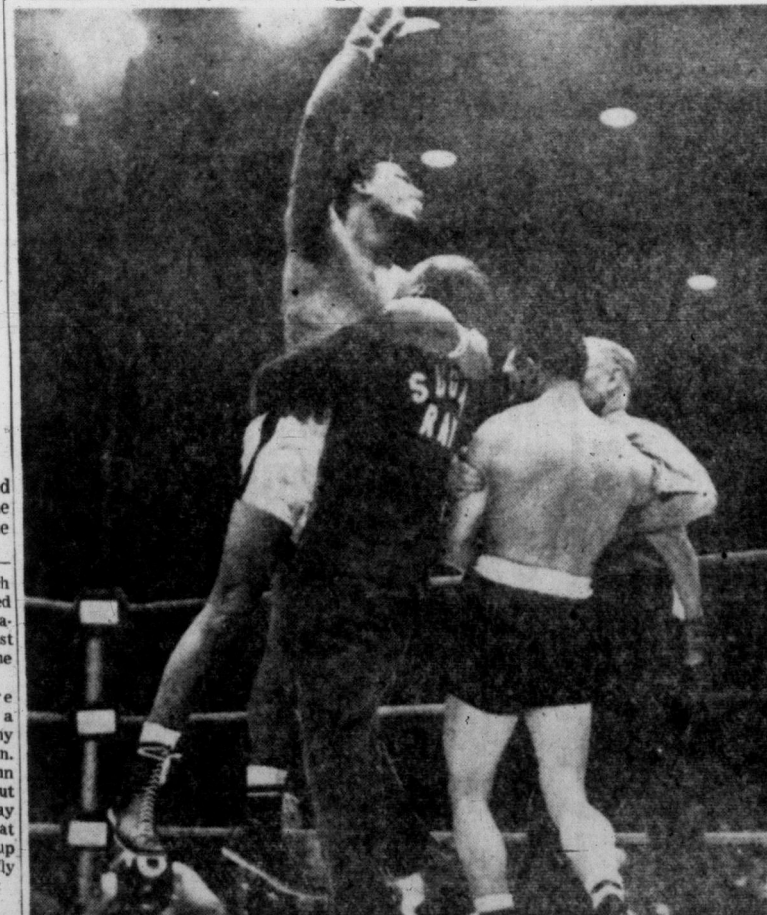

Grimacing with exertion, Sugar Ray Robinson drives a thumping right hand into the ribs of middleweight champion Gene Fullmer in the fifth round of their championship bout in Chicago. The body blow forced Fullmer to drop his guard and Robinson followed up with a whistling left hook that knocked out Fullmer and put crown on Robinson's head for fourth time.

THE COUNT IS TOLLED over the prostrate Fullmer by referee Frank Sikora but Fullmer, who almost got to his feet, pitched back to the canvas and was counted out of his middleweight title.

HELD ALOFT by manager Killer Johnston, Robinson waves a triumphant arm to his fans as Fullmer, still dazed, is led to his corner by referee Sikora, no longer the world champion. (AP Wirephoto.)

Pils Tough Stuff

Rocks Win, 17-11
But Kids Impress

By DENNY BOYD

Just a couple of hours after Ray Robinson struck his blow for the aged, the Vancouver Pilseners popped up as the biggest boost to the younger generation since the Baby Bonus.

Jack McKinnon's eminently unwhiskered Pilseners, mere babes in the Intercol Lacrosse League woods, didn't beat the Victoria Shamrocks here Wednesday night. They absorbed a fairly rough 17-11 defeat, but even in defeat they showed enough to brand them as a definite threat for the not-too-distant future.

The loss was accepted with satisfaction by freshman coach Jack McKinnon, who bubbled, "we're going to come along before very long. If we can pick up a couple of veterans for anchors, we should be able to hurt someone in this league." However, the win was not at all satisfactory to Shamrock coach Whitney Severson, who let it be known that he is anything but happy with the Shamrocks' attitude towards checking.

WARNING ISSUED

He said, "our checking was the worst—the absolute worst. Some of the guys just won't work at it. They probably are forgetting that Bremner, Dobbie and Gear aren't here yet. There are going to be some cuts on this club and no fooling about it."

Still, for the 2,900 fans it was a pleasing piece of entertainment as the Rocks got their second straight victory of the season.

Jack Bionda put on his usual display of pyrotechnics, ripping in four goals and adding an assist.

His two middle goals not only broke up the game when the Pils were threatening, but they showed Bionda is almost able to score at will.

Angered at having his nose sliced open, Bionda forgo all about his teammates and took on the Pils by himself for three frantic minutes of the fourth quarter.

First, he stole the ball out of Bob Stewart's stick, rammed through the Pilsener defence and ripped a shot past goalie Normie Lee.

FOUR FOR GILL

Al Gill jostled Bionda on the scoring podium, exploding for four goals while Lew Landess, Bert Bertoia each had a pair and Jackie Northup had his second straight four-assist night.

The acrobatic Lee, one of three Pilsener goalies, was the brightest light for his club. The doughty little netminder, knocked cold by a Gill check when he wandered out of his garage in the third quarter, had a hopping time all night with the Shamrock forwards but never quit trying.

Don Hamilton, subbing for Gordie Johnston in the Shamrock nets as Johnston started his ulcer-enforced layoff, kicked out 26 shots as the bustling Pilsener forwards tested him often and skillfully.

Robinson Regains Title With Dramatic Knockout

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

CHICAGO—Sugar Ray Robinson brushed back the years for one electrifying burst of violence Wednesday night to knock out champion Gene Fullmer with a left hook to the jaw in 1.27 of the fifth round.

Thus the Sugar Man became the first man ever to win the world middleweight title four times.

Robinson, a 3½-to-1 underdog, softened up the 25-year-old champion with two solid right hand punches to the body and then drove home a terrific left that dropped Fullmer to the Chicago Stadium deck.

Writhing on the canvas, Fullmer attempted to get up. But he jack-knifed back on his face and was counted out by referee Frank Sikora, the first time he had been stopped in his 44-bout career.

Robinson indicated today he will defend against welterweight ruler Carmen Basilio in a mid-July million-dollar fight.

Gene Had Piled Up Slim Margin

This was a different Robinson from the inept, faded workman who clutched desperately in an effort to go 15 rounds four months ago.

The bull-necked champ from the west had been banging away at Robinson's body and charging in fearlessly under Robinson's sporadic fire in the earlier rounds.

In fact, Fullmer had piled up a slender 19-18 lead on points on the cards of all three officials in the first four rounds. Robinson led on the Associated Press card by a 19-18 score.

When Robinson finally got his chance to turn it on, he let loose with both hands with deadening effect. When Sugar Ray tried to punch in bursts last January, Fullmer merely shook off the

Two Rights Set Up Finishing Left

Robinson moved out of his corner fast at the beginning of the third. He was at mid-ring before Fullmer was off his stool.

However, a crashing right to the ribs by Fullmer slowed him down.

Robinson was beginning to find his target in the fourth. With about 45 seconds to go he caught Fullmer with a series of punches ending with a hook to the head. Instead of backing off to take cover, Fullmer rushed Ray into his own corner and held off the attack for the rest of the round.

As Robinson stretched out in his corner before the fifth, he looked tired. When Fullmer flailed away from a wild right

Zulueta Gets Chance At Lightweight Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Promoter Joe Dupler of Denver said Wednesday lightweight champion Joe Brown of New Orleans had agreed to defend his title against Orlando Zulueta at Denver "sometime in June."

Dupler said the exact date would be announced.

Tribe's Strikeout Ace Steps Up Record Pace

As Indians Win

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Staff Writer

Young Herb Score, Cleveland's sensational strikeout artist, appears on his way to averaging at least nine strikeouts a game for the third consecutive season.

No other pitcher in the long history of baseball has been able to average that many in even one season... not Bob

Feller, Walter Johnson, Cy

Young, Christy Mathewson,

Dizzy Dean, Dizzy Dean or any other pitching immortals.

Yet Score did it not only in his rookie year but repeated in his sophomore season. In 1955

he averaged 9.58 strikeouts a game. In '56 it was 9.59. Now, in his third year, he is striking out batters at a faster rate than ever—an even 10 a game.

Score's effort, in this writer's opinion, ranks as the most spectacular of all pitching facts.

Three men have hurled a trio of no-hitters, three others have turned in two no-hitters in one season, and seven pitchers have registered perfect games. But only one regular starting pitcher—Score—has averaged nine strikeouts a game over a full season. And he did it twice —with a chance of making it three in a row.

FANS EVEN DOZEN

The 23-year-old southpaw

fanned a dozen in 6 1/3 innings

Wednesday before he was routed

by Washington in the seventh, but Cleveland fought back to nip the Senators 7-6.

The high-flying Chicago

steam, rolling over Baltimore

9-3 and increasing their American League lead over second-place Boston to two games.

The Red Sox, who had won six of seven on foreign soil, dropped a 7-5 decision in Kansas

City. New York Yankees

whipped Detroit 7-4 to even their two-game series with the Tigers.

Milwaukee's Braves snapped back after Tuesday night's shutout, defeating New York

Giants 5-1 in 10 innings to retain their one-game margin over Brooklyn.

The Dodgers trounced Chicago 7-2 behind the seven-hit pitching of young Don Drysdale. St. Louis, paced by a pair of veterans, Walker

Cooper and Stan Musial, whipped

Pittsburgh 9-2 to take sole possession of third place.

Wally Post singled in two runs in the top of the 16th inning to give Cincinnati Red-legs an 8-6 triumph over the

longest game of the season, played under the lights.

A single by Vic Wertz, scoring two of Cleveland's three runs in the seventh gave the Indians their come-from-behind victory. Ray Narleski, in relief, picked up his third victory without defeat.

U.K. VICAR FITS SERVICE TO LUCY'S SHOW

STEVENSTON, Eng. (Reuters)—This village's Anglican vicar plans to change his Sunday night services to fit in with the I Love Lucy television show, screened in Britain at 7.30 Sunday nights.

Rev. G. Westerdale Bowker, is quoted as saying: "I expect the village is against me 100 per cent. But the church has got to move with the times."

Bowker has no television set and has not seen I Love Lucy.

Canadian Soprano Wins U.K. Praise

LONDON (CP)—Irene Salenka, 26-year-old Canadian Soprano, won high praise from British music critics for her television performance Wednesday night in Gounod's opera, Faust.

The Daily Herald says the attractive singer from Weyburn, Sask., sang the role of Marguerite "in a voice which assumed the freshness of spring flowers, the sparkle of jewels and heaviness of despair as the opera expanded."

The Daily Mail says Miss Salenka was "excellent" and The 12 Victoria Daily Times

THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1957

News Chronicle says she gave to Marguerite "a girlish charm." Nearly all the critics note her "exquisitely tender and moving" singing of the love duet in the third act.

It is the second operatic triumph in Britain this year for Miss Salenka. She received favorable reviews last March when she made her debut with the Sadler's Wells opera as Pamina in Mozart's The Magic Flute.

She is to appear in Germany later this year as principal lyric soprano at the Frankfurt Opera.

INJURED—Film star Anna Magnani received a lump on the head Wednesday when a heavy iron stand used for lighting effects in her new movie, Obsession, blue over on her at Reno airport. Dr. D. E. Green of Paramount Studios said the blow gave her a severe headache but that she appeared to be otherwise unhurt.

DIES—Stage and screen actor Grant Mitchell died Wednesday at Los Angeles. Aged 82; he has been ill for more than a year.

CHASSIS LASSIE—Actress Debra Paget has been named "The Most Glamorous Chassis of 1957," an award usually given annually to one of the automotive body manufacturers by the Rollins Foundation at Los Angeles. "This year the board voted to expand our thinking," says John W. Rollins.

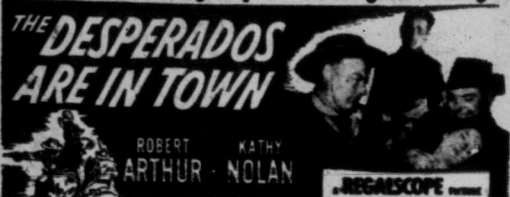

STRICKEN with third heart attack Wednesday was operatic basso Ezio Pinza, 64. Doctors reported today he was resting "as comfortably as can be expected."

Insult Stars or Pay Overtime? Money Speaks Loudest at Ballet

NEW YORK (AP)—What happens at the Metropolitan Opera House when it's final curtain time and three renowned guest artists haven't completed their performances?

If a decision is left up to Sergei Denham, director of the Ballet Russe, he orders the curtain rung down.

That's what he did Tuesday night on an incomplete performance of the ballet Gaiety Parisienne. And did he have a furious and very much insulted ballerina Alexandra Danilova on his hands?

"Amateurish," snapped the

DONE IT BEFORE
This was not the first time Denham has ordered an abrupt ending of an incomplete performance of the Ballet Russe. He did the same thing April 5 in Montreal while the concluding ballet of the opening night of program had several minutes to run. Again, the problem was overtime pay.

To Denham, it was simply a matter of economics. He said Tuesday's performance was "running into overtime." It was about to incur "frightening expenses" in overtime pay, and thus "it simply had to end promptly at 11.30 p.m., finished or not."

Thus, when the appointed moment arrived, neither the presence on stage of Mme. Danilova nor the performing of Frederic Franklin and Leon Danilov, two other renowned guest artists, could stay the curtain.

Building in Saanich Continues to Boom

New construction is up in Saanich but down in Oak Bay and Esquimalt, compared to the early part of 1956.

Value of construction in Saanich during April jumped to $647,460 for a total 94 building permits, boosting the total figure since Jan. 1 to $2,702,350.

This represents an increase of $193,086 compared with April 1956, and $638,056 over the total for the first four months a year ago.

In March the total value of construction was $513,203.

Largest items for which permits were issued last month were for a $25,000 service station at Richmond and Newton, and a $24,000 addition to Royal Oak elementary school.

Value of dwellings, for which there were 30 permits issued, was $566,800, compared with 63 permits totalling $416,290 a year ago.

Three-month building slump ended in Esquimalt in April with 22 permits issued covering an estimated $124,250 in construction.

But the year's building total to date is only $287,888, a far cry from 1956 figure of $594,400 covering the same period.

In April of last year, 27 permits were issued to the value of $195,150.

Forty-eight building permits valued at $148,308 were granted in Oak Bay in April, down from the same month last year when 36 permits were granted for $200,180.

To the end of April Oak Bay issued 130 permits for $372,288.

Fire Hall's Phones Cut 20 Minutes

Victoria fire department telephone communications were completely wiped out for 20 minutes Wednesday when trouble developed on the main hall switchboard.

Alarm room watchman noticed an unusual buzzing in the board as a party of school children was being shown through the hall.

He immediately tested the phones and found all but a main separate line direct to the telephone company out of order.

He summoned a telephone company trouble shooter who diagnosed the failure as line trouble, and sent for a line crew.

A further check disclosed an answering cord had fallen across the board's trunk line, shorting it out.

No fire alarms were received by call box telegraph, which was functioning, during the interruption of phone service.

Failure also left an emergency system intact, in which all fire halls are connected with the main hall by public address system. Replies to messages sent out in this manner would then be made over the truck-station two-way radio.

Plane Lands on Truck; Passengers Unhurt

CABOOL, Mo. (AP)—Trying to land on a highway because of a heavy fog, two men set their light plane down atop a big truck that was rolling along the road here.

William Keaton, 21, the pilot, and Ray Lee Strickland were not hurt, although their plane bounced off the truck and was demolished in a ditch. The unusual landing did little damage to the truck.

Probe of Adams Case Urged by British MP

Justice Discredited, Laborite Charges In Commons; 'Leak to Press' Criticized

LONDON (Reuters)—British justice was discredited in the investigation, indictment and trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams, a Labor member of Parliament said Wednesday night in the House of Commons.

Laborite George Wigg demanded an investigation but Attorney-General Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller rejected the plea.

Adams, 58, was acquitted April 8 of murdering a wealthy, elderly woman patient by overdoses of drugs.

Wigg said detailed information was leaked to reporters about the case.

"There was a systematic and planned campaign to build up a picture of a monster at large—murdering people not by the score but by the hundreds—and done in such a way as to fasten it on a particular individual," Wigg said.

LEAKED TO PRESS

He said information on a private conference between the prosecution, the defence and the police on the admissibility of certain evidence was leaked to every newspaper in London.

"Quite clearly the information is of such a detailed character it could only have come

25 TONS SCRAP METAL COLLECTED BY JAYCEES

Twenty-five tons of scrap have been collected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in its city-wide drive for metal to raise a $10,000 purse for the annual swim marathon across the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Jim Nicol, committee chairman, told a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday the drive "is exceeding expectations."

In the James Bay district alone, he said, so much metal has been made available by residents that collection of scrap in that area will not be completed for at least another two weeks.

People in other areas who have metal to offer, he said, should telephone 5-5622 or 5-3821. They will be notified when the scrap will be picked up.

Pub Owners' Delegation Wants 15 Cent Beer Price

An increase in the price of draught beer to 15 cents a glass or two for 25 cents is sought by B.C. hotel operators.

A delegation from the B.C. Hotels Association, representing 392 pub owners, was in Victoria today seeking government approval.

They were to meet Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Liquor Control Board chairman

Donald McGugan, but Mr. McGugan said this morning he knew nothing about the meeting.

Mr. McGugan did issue a statement about the situation in Prince Rupert where seven hotel operators hiked their prices, then backed down.

"Yesterday the licencees at Prince Rupert went back to 10 cents a glass rather than surrender their licences," the LCB chairman said.

"Regardless of arguments that may be advanced for variations in the price of draught beer, I wish to make it very clear that the Liquor Control Board and the licencees of the province operate under the government Liquor Act.

"The board will see that the act is observed in its entirety."

The hotelmen are seeking the price increase to offset a recent 15-cent-an-hour wage hike for tapmen and waiters.

After the Prince Rupert operators raised their prices without LCB sanction, Mr. McGugan called for the surrender of their licences.

But when they tried to turn them in, no one would accept them.

The next day the operators went back to the old price.

MONTÉ ROBERTS

Stories about Kute Kiddies, I can take them or leave them alone.

For instance:

There was this young lady, all of nearly-almost three years old.

And she noticed a small ant crawling along the sidewalk. And it appears she did not take kindly to the presence of the small ant, because she cried out to her daddy-o: "Daddy, Daddy—hit her wif a banger."

It was this same young lady who took to fooling around with the golf clubs which were the pride and joy of her daddy-o.

And her daddy-o, who is not only an indulgent parent but an avid (though incompetent) golfer, asked himself "Could it be we have a real golfer in the family?"

So he encouraged her by letting her take a slightly ancient putter, a wooden-shaft job, and try swinging it—just like daddy does, only better.

This young lady attempted with great enthusiasm, but considerable danger to her chin, which was too close to the ground and therefore became banged by the handle of the putter as she swung same.

So daddy-o made the supreme sacrifice.

He took the club down to the basement and sawed off a suitable length of the handle.

Then he presented the cut-down club to his young daughter.

Do you think she would have anything to do with the club?

Naturally not.

Even at nearly-almost three, a young lady is still feminine.

And then there was this young man, about the same age as the protagonist in the above anecdotes, who made a rather strange request to his mother.

To give you a mite of help, he made the request toward the middle of December.

And what he said was "please may I have a piece of chong ching?"

"Whatever for asked his mother.

"Want a piece of chong ching to string led bellies on the piffen tree," explained the young man.

Which his mother understood perfectly.

Do you?

Come to think of it, stories about Kute Kiddies, I can take them. But I'd rather leave them alone.

Pt. Angeles Excursion Wednesday

A special one-day excursion to Port Angeles, which includes a tour of the Olympic game reserve, has been arranged by the Chamber of Commerce for Victorians in conjunction with the city's gala Springtime Festival.

Victorians will leave aboard a CPR ferry for Port Angeles at 9:30 a.m. daylight saving time, next Wednesday. The ferry will leave at 8:20 p.m., arriving here at 10 o'clock.

The special tour was made possible through the co-operation of the Port Angeles Chamber of Commerce which has arranged to conduct Victorians to beauty spots on the Olympic peninsula.

Price for the tour, including the ferry fare, will be $6.50.

Meanwhile, hundreds of visitors today continued to visit some of the city's most beautiful private gardens which have been opened to the public for the Springtime Festival. The gardens are open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The gardens with the multi-colored blooms and ornamental trees are making a big hit with U.S. visitors.

"I've never seen gardens like those in Victoria," said Mrs. H. A. Drack, Portland, Oregon. "They are worth returning to see next year."

The only complaint from the garden visitors was the lack of sufficient guides to identify the plants and trees in the gardens.

"I would have liked to have taken down some names of the plants but there was no one around to tell me what they were," said Mrs. Frank Swenson of Snohomish, Seattle.

Gardens visited today were those of: Dr. Thomas Mercer, 2750 Tudor Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Anson Firth, 2676 Queenswood Drive; and Mrs. M. L. Sayward-Wilson, 2670 Queenswood Drive.

The festival Friday will feature the Canadian Folk Society Folk dances at Central Junior High School, starting at 8 p.m.

RHUBARB WITH AMBITION

Rhubarb plant in garden of Mrs. Roy Lund, 2546 Dalhousie, is doing its blooming well best to make like a flower during spring festival week. Most rhubarbs are content to look forward to a career as potential pie fillings; not this one, which flouted nature's laws to blossom forth, with much enthusiasm but questionable eye-appeal. Gorge Swim Centre Proposed by Kinsmen

A plan to use Kinsmen bingo profits for development of a Gorge Park swimming centre will be discussed by Victoria Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee and service club officials next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

Kinsmen president Stan Mossop said today the amount the club is willing to spend depends on a co-operative arrangement with the intermunicipal parks officials.

Plan under study calls for erection of bath houses and other facilities and beach construction at the old public swimming area below Tillicum bridge.

Some park clearing would be undertaken.

The five bingos staged by the clubmen at Memorial Arena are reported to have provided a fund of close to $21,000.

Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society president George E. Williams said Wednesday night his organization had hoped for a Kinsmen grant toward a planned $75,000 low-rent housing unit for pensioners.

If the Kinsmen turn over funds on hand to the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee, the service club will be asked for other special aid.

The club will be asked to either hold a special bingo for the housing unit or conduct a special door-to-door, one-night fund-raising campaign.

Kinsmen president Mossop could not comment on these requests today.

2 Sooke Men Charged With Arson

Two Sooke men were arrested and charged with arson Wednesday night after a three-day investigation by the RCMP and the fire marshal's effort into cause of a fire which destroyed a barn filled with hay Saturday night.

In custody are Rudolph Arthur Vowles, 23, and Stephen Gregory Ward, 19, both of Sooke Boarding House.

They appeared today before Magistrate Fred Thornber at Sooke and were remanded without plea to next Wednesday in Colwood RCMP court. Bail was not set.

About 40 persons were interviewed during the investigation by Const. Don Knight of Sooke detachment and fire marshal Alex Masterton, from Vancouver.

20,000 LOSS

An estimated $20,000 loss was sustained in the blaze, which was covered to $4,000 by owner G. A. Vantreight, 4423 Tyndall, Victoria. It was rented by G. A. Vantreight, Jr., 4437 Tyndall, who had equipment stored there besides hay.

Built more than 60 years ago, the 50 by 100-foot barn was a Sooke village landmark and was constructed of squared, dovetailed timbers, 24 by 24 inches.

Flames were noticed shortly before 10:45 p.m. Saturday, when the alarm was turned in. Sooke volunteer firemen were attending their first annual ball at the time.

DOCTOR WARNS: 'Do It Now' For Polio Protection

Dr. Gavin Chisholm, president of the Victoria Medical Society, today urged everyone to take advantage of local doctors' "Operation Polio" despite reports the provincial health program will provide free injections of Salk Vaccine next year.

"It is very gratifying that the public health authorities hope to be able to supply vaccine at some future date," Dr. Chisholm said.

UNPROTECTED

"But even if it is available at the end of 1958, it still leaves the people unprotected for the next two summers when an epidemic might be quite likely. We are still urging the public to subscribe to Operation Polio."

It was emphasized that the public has only two more days to pick up registration cards at local area drug stores.

The cards cost only $1 and entitle the holder to the first vaccine injection to be given during the week of May 13.

Registration must be made in advance because the vaccine is perishable, and the Medical Society must order a specific amount from Cohnsaght Laboratories in Toronto.

Up to 4 p.m. Wednesday, more than 5,200 persons had registered.

A spokesman for the doctors said this was encouraging, but added that an estimated 60,000 persons in the Greater Victoria area up to the age of 40 are susceptible to polio.

Second shots will be given in June and the third next January. Each will cost $1.

HOWARD STAINS ... to Idaho

U.S. OFFICER LEAVES

City Loses Top Booster To New Job

By TONY DICKASON

Over his coffee this morning, Howard Stains expressed regret at having to leave Victoria and did it with a sincerity that even a native son would have a difficult time matching.

Mr. Stains has been a U.S. immigration inspector here for seven years, and is moving within a few days to Eastport, Idaho.

"It is with deep regret I leave Victoria. It has been the most wonderful period of my life. I've never had such wonderful friends, and that goes for my wife, Irene, too."

He sighed thoughtfully, and added: "I don't have the proper words to express my pleasure and happiness at our association with Victorians."

HERE IN 1950

Mr. and Mrs. Stains came here in April, 1950. He has been with U.S. Immigration since 1941 and has worked in his home town of Portland, Ore., Tacoma, Victoria, as well as short postings in Los Angeles and in New Jersey.

The Stains have been living in the Tweedsmuir Apartments, adjacent to Beacon Hill Park, and the couple of duck fanciers, visually.

"The only way to outwit those voracious gulls and feed the ducks in the winter," he vouchsafed, "is to feed them wheat."

"Seagulls can't pick up the wheat like they do bread, while ducks can."

The Pacific Club and Shrine Club member, after a few words about immigration itself—"most of our trouble comes from lack of proper documentation or proof of citizenship"—returned to his favorite subject, Victoria.

"I've made my work fun here," said the volunteer publisher of the city,

SHOPPING GUIDE

Men's Department Invasion Gives Us Some Style Ideas

By PENNY SAVER

Any men reading the column today will cringe slightly when they see what I'm about to do with their silk cravats. I've been looking at these pleated and patterned cravats in a man's department for some weeks, and when the newest solid shade and printed ones arrived, I simply could resist no longer.

Ladies... a cummerbund! Yes, these cravats, with pleated centre section and wider ends make gay, soft cummerbunds for your summer frocks. Tie the ends in a loose knot and let it highlight the back of your outfit. They're just the right length. The pleated centre part gives a dainty, neat front view. In pure silk, which is all the rage this season, these cummerbunds, or if you wish, cravats, come in light shades with a turnover color, or in tiny dotted print.

You can have a bit of fun dressing up your last year's cottons at a low cost. These converted cravats are $3.50 each. Oh yes, they do have another use... for you men who like to wear cravats.

More surprises for you girls! There has been a new shipment of English-made knee socks, especially for your Bermuda shorts. Argyles to team with your tartan or staid worsted shorts come in all colors with red, green, pink, yellow and white teamed with greys and browns for striking effects. Of nylon and wool, the socks are reinforced, and shrink resisting and the price is $5. If you prefer white cable-knit socks, they are $5.50 and lighter-weight cotton and wool or all-wool are priced at $2.50. The range of colors is wonderful.

If your Bermuda shorts have seen better days or if you want another pair, just for the fun of it, you can buy them in a favorite tartan at $14.50 or in solid worsted, $16.50. There are denim, cotton and light flannel Bermudas selling at various prices, too.

Since summer clothes seem to be the order of the day, I'll tell you about a white linen sheath dress I've found. It has three-quarter, cuffed sleeves, a Peter Pan collar and a four-button neckline. There are two deep pockets in the slim skirt, and the waistline is nipped in with a little self-belt.

IN HONOR OF THE BRIDE

Miss Joan Thorne and Miss Ethel John were hostesses recently at the Thorne home on East Saanich Road when they honored bride-elect, Miss Margaret Holt with a miscellaneous shower. A corsage was presented to the bride-to-be and a miniature church held the many gifts. Cherry blossoms and daffodils decorated the rooms. Invited guests were Mrs. R. Tucker, Misses Marilyn Darbes, Maureen Sims, Joan Pugh, Eileen Gardner, Winnie Reid, Barbara Starck, Barbara Peters, Connie Downey, Angela Morley, Hazel Munn, Sylvia Steel, Aimee McDonnell, Cathie Slater, Barbara McLellan, Dorothy Luten, Marian Eckhart, and Marian McKay.

Staff members of the observation ward of Royal Jubilee Hospital gave a shower at the home of Mrs. H. C. Watson, 824 Wollaston Street, to honor Miss Sidney Barlow, who will be married in mid-May. Guests presented the bride-elect with a personal gift and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Alex Baird, mother of the groom-elect, received a corsage of pink carnations. Those present were Mrs. B. Bayliss, Mrs. E. Ovas, Mrs. L. Ashton, Mrs. D. Robe, Mrs. J. Trace, Mrs. Ivy McLeod, Mrs. E. Caley and Misses M. Christensen, M. Ure, B. Round, M. Kendall, J. Renshaw, Pearl Townsend, O. Married In Mother's Home

Standards of white stocks, pink snapdragons and narcissus blooms decorated the Suffolk Street home of Mrs. E. M. Goodwin recently for the wedding ceremony in which her daughter, Miss Mary Isabelle Goodwin became the bride of Don Larry Wilson.

Rev. G. J. MacKenzie officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white lace posed over black taffeta, in sheath style. She wore a small velvet headpiece with orange blossoms from which misted a small veil. Her jewelry was a black onyx pendant with diamond, gift of the groom, and completing her outfit, she carried a small bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Victor Baratta, wore a pink princess line dress of nylon tulle over taffeta. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and mauve stocks, matching her floral headband. Flower girl, Julie Rae Goodwin wore a blue nylon frock and carried a colonial bouquet of mauve and pink stocks. Her headband matched her dress.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wilson, 2960 Henderson Road, had Victor Baratta as best man. A reception party was held at the Mahogany Room of the Strathcona Hotel, where Alan B. Ford proposed the toast to the bride. The newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip in Canada and the United States, the bride wore a sheath of white lace over black, with black cashmere coat and blue hat and gloves. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will live at 720 Suffolk Street.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ben Barker (MOTHER OF 5)

Here we are, right in the midst of National Baby Week. And while every week is baby week for you mothers, this is the time when all our tiny sweet and precious ones are in the spotlight everywhere. Your grocer, for example, who serves your baby all the year, puts special emphasis on baby needs this week. What better time to check his shelves and see how very many fine products he has featured for your pride and joy?

New babies advance to solid foods surprisingly soon in these modern times. Almost before you can believe it, your doctor will probably specify cereal. That's when you'll find the five Gerber Cereals—Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal provide the ideal way to introduce cereal variety to your darling. All are precooked and ready to serve. When mixed with formula or milk they have the nice-on-the-tongue texture babies like. All four are enriched with iron, calcium and B-vitamins.

Regulating ideas. When your doctor feels baby is ready to move toward a regular, 3-meals-a-day schedule, you'll find a change of scene or a bit of play will help baby "wait out" a half hour or so even if hunger sends out early signals. Babies are adaptable and will often settle for attention if the wait isn't too long.

Early menu entree. Doctors recommend fully ripe bananas for small fry, not only to provide energy-giving calories in easy to digest form, but because most babies take to this palatable fruit almost instantly. Gerber Strained Bananas have a uniform, just-right degree of ripeness because ripening is controlled. Special processing preserves the delicate banana flavor, appealing color and smooth texture. WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Regularity Most Important Part of Beauty Treatment

When planning a beauty routine women often forget the most important part of all. This is regularity! No matter how effective the creams and cleansers, astringents and masks you may have, or how many wonderful exercises you may know, they will be of little avail unless you apply the cosmetics and do the exercises regularly.

Ten hours of sleep one night does not make up for the habitual loss of sleep, nor do vitamin pills and health foods once a week overcome the deficiencies caused by generally poor nutrition. It is the day by day pattern that counts in health or beauty.

Surveys of those who have remained youthful far into old age have shown some remarkable likenesses. Most of these folks have lived regular lives, without excesses of any kind. They did not scurry and hurry through life. They had vital interests and usually were calm and gay. Of course there are exceptions, but this was the main trend.

Actually, sporadic exercise can be harmful. It is not good to throw yourself into violent exercise after years or months of sedentary living. You should gradually increase the strenuousness and the length of time. On-and-off-again exercise can be downright dangerous and it certainly will not have the slimming and toning effects you seek.

It is much better to have a simple routine and stick to it day by day than to plan an elaborate one and do it in a hit-and-miss fashion. However, it is possible to include the essentials of health and beauty care without investing a great deal of time.

It takes no longer to eat vital foods than to eat devitalized foods. In fact it may take less time since we are tempted to eat more of the devitalized ones than we should. Twenty to 30 minutes of exercise a day will be most beneficial. Skin cleansing and lubrication take only a few minutes. Let the cream or oil soak in while you work or sleep or bathe. Add to that scalp massage for five or 10 minutes and you are well on your way to continued good looks.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Essential Daily Routine" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions by letter to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Billy Roberts, aged 12, of Gilmer, Texas, for his question:

What Makes a Tornado?

This year, the March weather roared like a lion from start to finish and rampaged right into April. Late masses of polar air from the north broke right through our spring defences. The cold front that devastated the north central states with blizzards bent south to breed a family of disastrous tornados. Mr. Courts, Andy's friendly San Francisco weatherman, says he would rather have an earthquake than a tornado any day.

The cruel little twister is the fiercest storm ever hatched by the weather. We cannot tell just where it will strike the ground and we are not sure why it forms. We do know how its powerful fury works and we do know the weather conditions likely to produce it. So the weatherman can warn when tornados can and might happen.

Tornados tend to build up along the front of a massive cyclonic storm. Three different air masses have met and clashed. Dry polar air from the north, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico had advanced and met it. A mass of cool, slightly moist air had moved in from the Pacific to join the conflict. The battle line of air masses across our south and central states from the west or southwest. Ahead of it, small skirmishes build up where a layer of cold dry air overruns a lower layer of warm damp air. These weather skirmishes generate tornados. Trailing funnels of dark clouds dip and sway. Some reach the ground and plow a path of havoc.

The centre of the funnel is a column of rising air so light that it is almost a vacuum. The vacuum power works to pull winds and everything else towards it. The spin of the earth gives a twist to the fast, inflowing winds and sets them spiraling. At the heart of the funnel, the winds rush upwards and create a central pocket almost empty of air.

The spiraling winds, pulling everything to the heart of the twister may reach 400 miles per hour. This is nearly three times the speed and strength of the worst hurricane. A bad twister may tear up the ground in a 50-mile path before spending its fury.

Trees are uprooted and cars tossed around like toys. Buildings blow inside out. This happens because the centre of the tornado is the most powerful vacuum in the world. The air inside buildings rushes out to fill the vacuum in the twister. It rushes with such force that roofs are pulled skyward and walls dragged outward—the building explodes. The best place for people caught in this fury is inside a storm cellar with the door shut tight.

More than a hundred cruel tornados strike the states east of the Rockies every year. They build up from May to November and are most numerous in the spring and early summer. This year, we all grieved to hear of tornado disaster worse than usual. Perhaps we can offer one small note of cheer to those who were struck. Another tornado is not likely to strike in the same spot again.

Atomic Arms For Canada From Britain?

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada eventually may get atomic warheads from the United Kingdom to fit on guided missiles obtained from the United States, officials here say.

But they add the U.S. is the more likely source of supply for the warheads as well as the missiles.

Authorities indicate strongly that they are convinced the U.S. in the next year or two will repeal or amend present laws which prohibit supplying allies with atomic weapons.

But in case the U.S. doesn't take such action, Britain would be an alternative source of supply for atomic warheads. The U.S., Britain and Russia now are the only countries manufacturing atomic arms.

51 Hungarians Arrive Here; 20 Children

A contingent of 51 Hungarian refugees, the largest to be sent to Victoria since Jan. 17, arrived in Victoria Tuesday.

The Hungarians had all settled in England before coming to Canada.

The group mostly consists of married couples and 20 children, all of whom have a working knowledge of the English language.

Immigration officials said their biggest problem will be in finding a home and employment for Mrs. Terrace Hovas, mother of three children, whose husband left her in Europe. The ages of the children are 11, 12 and 13.

Number of Hungarians sent to Victoria since Dec. 1 is about 360, they said.

In addition, a steady stream of immigrants of other nationalities has arrived in Victoria during the past month, they said. One group included 10 Portuguese.

Victoria Ratepayers' Association wrote city council today supporting early implementation of a business tax, based on existing legislation, as advocated by Ald. J. Donald Smith.

"We feel that this should be done before any existing taxes are laid on the shoulders of the already overburdened property-owners."

Council meets on business tax Thursday. Budget comes up for study Friday and the proposed tax will be studied as a method of reducing anticipated tax increases this year.

Flying Clubs Plan Corps To Assist CD

Representatives of private flying organizations across Canada met in Ottawa Wednesday to discuss forming an air corps to co-operate with civil defence in emergencies.

Joseph Howroyd of the Victoria Flying Club and Harry O'Reilly, manager of the Aero Club of B.C. will represent the province.

In an emergency the private pilots would be called on to fly patrols and assist CD workers.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Victoria District: Scout and Scouters are reminded that they need a campfire permit when they are overnight camping or on a cooking hike. The fire season commenced May 1. Permits may be obtained from B.C. Forest officers or permit officers.

Tillicum "A" Pack: District Cubmaster Phyllis Sheffield paid the pack a visit and presented Mary Smith with her district training card.

Duncan Noyes was invested as a Wolf Cub by Akela Jean Johanson; Paul Fairhurst received his first-aid badge; first stars were presented to Ronnie Catoe, Michael Coward, Desmond McFinnon and John Harnam. Second star tests have been completed by Glen McDonald. The group committee will hold their next meeting on Monday evening.

Third Victoria Group: At the regular meeting of the troop on Tuesday evening a patrol's alert stunt was carried out that took the Scouts to different parts of the city to complete their projects. Several boys concluded their second-class tests.

Plans are under way for a night expedition and camping trip for the troop in conjunction with the Chinese troop. This will involve individual cooking and making of bivouacs.

Windsor Park "B" Pack: At the regular meeting on Tuesday evening Scoutmaster Dan Darns showed the boy's Cub and Scout insignia that he had brought back from a recent trip to Hawaii. Next week the pack will hold a special parents' night.

Scouts have you ever tried to make a water purifier for your camp? Get a four-gallon can, cut off the top, puncture two small holes about three inches from the bottom, they should be side by side. Stand the tin on a log or stone and put in the bottom of it about two to three inches of small stones or pebbles. Then place an inch or so of sand and about two inches of charcoal (you can make this yourself). On top of the charcoal put four to five inches of sand and gravel. Pour the dirty water in the top and let it settle down. It will pour out through the holes in the bottom, clean.

B.C. Skier Tells Vivid Rescue Tale

VANCOUVER (CP)—The story of an exhausting trek down the steep slopes of Mount Baker, Wash., to bring an injured skier to safety from the 9,300-foot level was told here Tuesday.

The skier, Bill Howie, 31-year-old electrical engineer, was to be released from Vancouver General Hospital today after treatment for a broken leg.

Howie told how he and six Vancouver members of the Alpine Club—J. J. Fairley, Elfrida Pigou, Jim Freeman, Chris Hedson, Leon Blumer and Barney Hoffman—set out Saturday, April 20, for a combined skiing and mountaineering expedition on the seldom-used northwest face of Mount Baker.

The injured man suffered a broken leg when he ran into soft snow high on the mountain. Howie's companions lashed skis together and dragged him back to their cabin where they fed him morphia to deaden the pain.

Next day they completed a harrowing trip down the slope, dragging Howie in a basket stretcher. They struggled through deep snow and drifts for six hours before reaching their cars.

Dental Assistants To Hear Talks By U.S. Dentists

Two dentists from California will lecture at the 11th annual convention of the B.C. Dental Assistants' Association here May 16-18.

Keynote talks on dentistry will be given by Dr. Sol Silverman of San Francisco, and Capt. Theodore Lesney of the U.S. Dental Corp. San Diego.

Luncheon meetings will be addressed by J. Courtney Haddock, manager of Woodward Stores Ltd., on English Bone China, and Mrs. N. H. Graham, home service supervisor, B.C. Electric Co., on "Home Economics."

Heading arrangements for the convention, to be held at the Empress Hotel, are Miss E. M. McDonald, general convener; Miss Beverley Barwell, housing; Mrs. Elsie Rust, floral decorations; Miss Jean McGregor, programs; Miss Donna Butcher, clinics; Miss Beverley Fellner, luncheon, and Mrs. Gertrude Fulton, press.

Appeal Court Resumes Here Monday

The spring session of the B.C. Court of Appeal will be resumed at Victoria Courthouse Monday, following the hearing of appeals in Vancouver.

First appeal down for hearing is that of Colin W. L. Chalmers, Victoria, who was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary for the Feb. 11 holdup of the James Bay branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Chalmers filed his own appeal against the sentence and will appear in person.

30-YEAR-OLD B.C. MINE SHUTS DOWN

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—The last shift is finished on a mining operation near Princeton which started more than 30 years ago. The end of April marked the shutdown of operations of Granby Consolidated mine at Copper Mountain, 17 miles south of this Nicola Valley centre. The company operated a mine at Copper Mountain, a concentrator at Allenby, five miles south of here, and a power plant in Princeton.

About 300 persons were thrown out of work by the shutdown, which had been expected for many months. About 75 persons will continue to work for Granby for four or five months salvaging equipment.

TACTICS IN PATTERN

Tory Chief Aims At Man-in-Street

By JAMES R. NELSON

TRURO, N.S. (BUP) — John Diefenbaker completes the first week of his official Conservative election campaign today with his tactics settling into a pattern of man-in-the-street interviews and oratory.

Diefenbaker spoke to an overflow audience of 800 in this northern Nova Scotia industrial town Wednesday night for over an hour. More than 100 stood at the back of the high school auditorium, and others listened over a loudspeaker in the school principal's office. The speech was broadcast by three radio stations.

On the platform with him, endorsing his campaign, was Premier Robert Stanfield of Each Speech Tailored for Locality.

Mr. Diefenbaker hates to speak from a prepared text, and even when he prepares one, doesn't follow it. He ignored a two-page text he prepared for Wednesday night's speech about foreign affairs, but probably will use it later in the campaign.

While he uses few notes, each speech is tailored for the locality or the audience. In Charlottetown on Monday night, the auditorium lights were turned out while he spoke. Later orders were issued to rally organizers that the lights be kept on, so he can see individuals in the audience and does not have to speak into a glare of floodlights on the platform.

The themes of parliamentary supremacy, cabinet dictatorship, and overtaxation and inflation have been played upon in all of Mr. Diefenbaker's major addresses. "I have tried to visit every part of this country—not just at election time—so as to learn its problems and so as to speak to the average man and woman. For if one lives in ivory towers, one does not hear the heartbeat of the people, their desires, their hopes, and their aspirations," he said Wednesday night.

He recalled that someone suggested Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent should be canonized, to become the patron "of Canada." "What is needed in this province," he said, "is someone to be a patron of Nova Scotia and the other Maritime provinces." He said that it was only after the Conservative provincial victories in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick that the federal Liberals realized "something was wrong" in this part of the country.

"Take the tax collector, off the backs of the Canadian people," he demanded at another point. "Every one of you have had taken from you in the last year and a half, $45 more than the government required for defence and civil government."

"They say, after all, you don't know how to spend your money. They say, 'if we take it and spend it, that does not harm at all.'"

Mr. Diefenbaker also hit the Liberal "myth" of the indispensability of cabinet ministers. "The pundit from Bonaville-Twillingate (Citizenship Minister J. W. Pickersgill), is he indispensable?" He told the story of a salesman trying to collect a bill from a South Dakota man who was the town's merchant, mayor, bank president, lawyer and credit manager. The salesman was told that if he was not also a deacon in the Baptist Church — "and I'm a Baptist, too," said Mr. Diefenbaker — and if he did not have to fill in for the minister the following Sunday, he could tell the salesman where to go.

"There is really an indispensable man," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Diefenbaker flayed Liberal back-bench members of parliament for not voicing their opinions when they run contrary to the opinions of the cabinet.

"Howe says no, Harris says no, and 170 Liberals stand up and say, 'me too,'" Mr. Diefenbaker chided.

Big Entry List For Home Fair Starting Monday

Doors of the big Junior Chamber of Commerce 11th annual Victoria and Industrial and Agricultural Fair will be thrown open to the public at 6 p.m. Monday, George Geddie, chairman of the Jaycee fair committee, said today.

The fair, to be held jointly at the Memorial Arena and the Victoria Curling Rink, will feature over 100 exhibits, including an arts and crafts hobby show.

An agricultural section will also be held outside in tents between the arena and curling rink. Prize cattle from Saanich, as well as Canada's champion butterfat cow from Judge's Dairy, will be on exhibit.

A midway will be situated outside on the north side of the curling rink.

The fair will be officially opened by Public Works Minister W. A. Chant at 7:30 p.m. Speakers will include Mayor Percy Scurren and Victor Fugle, president of the Victoria Jaycees.

CAR IN MUD NOT VEHICLE, JUDGE RULES

TORONTO (CP) — A car stuck fast in mud is not a motor vehicle within the meaning of the Criminal Code, a Toronto magistrate has ruled.

Magistrate E. N. Thompson made the ruling Wednesday as he dismissed a charge of having care and control of a vehicle while intoxicated laid against William G. Arthur, 33, of Scarborough.

Police said Arthur was trying to drive his car out of mud in a boulevard on the Queen Elizabeth Way when arrested.

Marine Park Study Urged On Salt Spring

GANGES — Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce was advised Wednesday night by Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood to investigate the possibility of locating a marine park on the island.

Making his first appearance on the island in his new capacity, the former trade and industry minister told chamber members at a large dinner meeting that the new department "will work toward proper use of our tremendous recreational resources through wise conservation education."

Earlier in the day chamber members took him on a tour to point out needs of the island, such as a ferry slip at Ganges for front-end loading, access roads to beaches and lakes, additional equipment for roads, a customs port, and park developments.

Named to a committee to investigate the marine park proposal, were V. Jackson, H. Geigerich, G. Mouat, M. Munro, and R. Akerman.

8-HOUR OPERATION

B.C. Woman Critical After Heart Surgery

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. Helen Tellier, 34, of Vancouver, B.C., was reported in critical condition at National Jewish Hospital today after an eight-hour heart operation.

Dr. Sidney H. Dressler, medical director, said "it will be some weeks before we can assess the success of the operation."

The operation was performed to correct a narrowing of the pulmonary artery, the blood vessel leading to the inner wall of the heart.

The "deep freeze" method, employed in numerous operations at the hospital in the past, was used in Mrs. Tellier's case.

The patient is placed in a canvas envelope packed with ice cubes, and left there for an hour before surgery begins.

This is designed to reduce the body temperature by about 10 degrees, slow down bodily functions, and reduce the amount of oxygen needed by the patient.

These factors give the surgeons more time to perform the delicate heart operation.

The eight-hour period included the hour in the "deep freeze" and another hour of thawing out after surgery.

Mrs. Tellier's husband, Gerald, was at the hospital during the lengthy operation.

Busty Diana Dors And Hubby Agree To Disagree

LONDON (UP) — Britain's busty film blonde Diana Dors and husband Denis Hamilton have separated. The London Daily Mirror said today.

The Mirror quoted Diana as saying "it could be that our present break-up is a sequel to our differences in Hollywood."

Diana and her husband haven't been home long from the film capital where they made headlines by throwing a party which highlighted a fight by a swimming pool.

Hamilton told The Mirror "this is the finish of my marriage to Diana."

Their separation followed a reported row at an all-night party Saturday last.

Sunday News Hearing Delayed Until May 22

TORONTO (CP) — The hearing of Lord's Day Act charges against the three Toronto daily newspapers, the CBC and radio station CKEY was adjourned Wednesday by Magistrate T. S. Elmore until May 22.

All five have been charged with violating the act by disseminating or gathering news on Sunday.

Today, C. F. H. Carson, special prosecutor for the attorney-general's department, asked for the adjournment pending the result of an application by the CBC to the Ontario Supreme Court.

The CBC has asked that the prosecution against it be quashed, claiming that as an agency of the Crown it is not subject to the Lord's Day Act.

'Hydrofoil' Vessel Due for Launching

A hush-hush Canadian hydrofoil research craft was scheduled for launching Monday at the Saunders-Roe Anglesey Ltd. works near Bangor, in Wales, according to Ken Methel, Canadian Press staff writer.

The 59-foot, 17-ton craft has been designed and built under contract to the Canadian government, and is expected to be used for research into high-speed water travel. Detailed evaluation tests will be carried out by the Canadian Defence Research Board at Halifax.

Methel described the craft as follows:

The boat is being named Bras d'Or in honor of Alexander Graham Bell, whose early experimental work with hydrofoils in conjunction with F. W. Casey Baldwin formed the basis of the present vessel's design. Bell and Baldwin carried out much of their experimental work on the Bras d'Or lakes in Nova Scotia.

STRICT SECURITY

The hull, of aluminum alloy, is fitted with three hydrofoil units of similar size—a forward pair mounted on each side of the hull and a unit mounted behind the transom. Much of the hydrofoil design is under a strict security blanket, but it is known that each unit contains several v-shaped blades and that the hydrofoil system employed is of a "surface-piercing" type in which the upper blades leave the water as speed increases.

"Advantages claimed for the "ladder" system of surface-piercing hydrofoils are the achievement of large hull clearances at speed while retaining good structural properties for scaling to larger craft.

"The system is reported to be inherently stable, a property which would have obvious advantages for naval craft needing to combine high speed with stable platform for either guns or guided missiles.

"The prototype of the Bras d'Or, the R-100 Massawippi, has been undergoing extensive trials at the Canadian naval research establishment. The 3100 has a length of 45 feet and the decision to build a larger research vehicle is believed to indicate that the experimental work is progressing satisfactorily."

WORKS LIKE WINGS

Hydrofoils actually are airfoil sections or little metal wings that work in water in exactly the same way that an aircraft's wing works in air. However, since water is 800 times denser than air, the hydrofoil need only be 1/800th the size of an airfoil to provide the same amount of lift at equal speeds.

They have several advantages, the chief one being that, within certain limitations, speed varies directly as the power. In planing craft speed varies as the square of the power, and in displacement vessels it varies as the cube of the power.

They are set in staggered ladder formation under the hull, so that as speed and "wing loading" increase, the whole unit rises to the point where weight equals lift. If speed increases, lift increases, and the hull rises again until weight and lift balance.

Canada's "hush-hush" hydrofoil craft built in Wales.

They are remarkably steady. Chop affects them little, and on a turn they tend to bank the boat in the direction of the turn. This is because the hydrofoils on the outside of the curve must of necessity go farther and faster than those on the inside, therefore will have more lift.

Result is that the boat banks nicely, like a well-handled aircraft.

SMOOTH AT 70-MPH

One of the experimental models built by Bell and Baldwin in the years immediately following the First World War was powered by four Liberty aircraft engines driving air propellers. It would ride smoothly through chop at 70 miles per hour, making little or no underwater noise and could turn sharply.

Once in a test, Baldwin drove it full tilt at a floating bale of hay so that the hydrofoil unit on one side hit the sodden hay. The boat was thrown around violently, but remained on an even keel until Baldwin resumed control.

For no good reason, and with one exception, the hydrofoil principle was forgotten until after the Second World War, when interest revived again. This time they may be here to stay.

Scurrah Would Sell Lake Land At Fair Price

'Should Belong To Saanich'

Saanich Council can buy the Beaver-Elk Lake watershed from the city as far as Mayor Percy Scurrah is concerned, but at a "fair appraised value."

Mayor Scurrah commented Wednesday on a Saanich move to buy the land and dedicate it as a municipal park.

"That is a valuable piece of property and my personal opinion is that it should belong to Saanich and be dedicated as park property."

BIG ASSET

"It would be a tremendous asset for Saanich and I would be agreeable to selling it at a fair appraised value. I feel council would agree."

Reeve Arthur Ash had cautioned his council to await a decision on the report that Capital District Improvement Commission might take over the property and develop it as a park.

The mayor, in this regard, said: "It has been the policy of the CIDC not to pay for park properties. I was not interested in just handing over those assets at Elk Lake for nothing. That is why the property has not been considered too seriously by the commission."

Labor Newspaper Urged by Unionist

A suggestion that the Victoria Labor Council start its own newspaper to report "all the facts" of the labor movement was tabled at a VLC meeting Wednesday.

The suggestion was advanced by longshoremen's delegate Ralph Forbes who said "we are not getting the publicity from the local press." He said it was "slanted." IWA business agent, Ed Haw, said: "I'm not prepared to buy that," pointing out that if no news resulted from meetings nothing much could be said in the press.

But he scored "editors and publishers," charging that through editorial policies they "warped the minds of the people."

V.I. Speakers Win Contests At Portland

Four Island members of the Dale Carnegie Club International won top honors in a district convention at Portland, Ore., last weekend.

Two of them, Eileen Jubb, Victoria, and William Taylor, Department Bay, will enter finals of a Dale Carnegie International convention in Houston, Texas, next month.

Mrs. Jubb won first place in the impromptu class, and John L. Nieuwoudt, Victoria, placed second.

Mr. Taylor took first place in the prepared speech section, with Mrs. Rose Richardson, Duncan, second.

City Police Said Doomed To Lower Pay

Duties of Victoria and Vancouver police are not different enough to justify a $28 higher monthly wage in the mainland city.

This opinion was expressed by Melvin J. Kemmis, Vancouver, in a minority conciliation board report.

The $28 differential was before Victoria's 93 policemen were awarded an 8 per cent pay boost last month.

Mr. Kemmis, union nominee on the board, feared the Victoria force would be doomed to a perpetual sub-standard salary.

BONN, Germany — President Eisenhower told the North Atlantic Alliance today that the U.S. will maintain its forces at their present strength despite Britain's planned defence cuts.

WHO OWNS WHAT?

Supreme Court Hears Involved Mineral Claim

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada was led today through a succession of property transfers involving an Indian band, the federal government and various agencies and 13 Alberta soldiers' settlers in the Ponoka area. The object was to establish whether the settlers own the mineral rights.

Lawyer G. H. Steer of Edmonton, counsel for 13 First World War veterans who bought from the old soldier settlement board a total of 31.5 square miles formerly belonging to the Bobtail's band of Indians, quoted from statutes and documents. He sought to show that when the Indians surrendered their land to the federal government in 1909 their surrender involved all rights.

At stake is a ruling by the Exchequer Court of Canada that the settlement board had no power to convey the mineral rights.

The issue arose when in 1948 the federal government announced it would transfer to soldier-settlers who had paid off their land purchase the mineral rights to it—if the government owned the rights. Where the rights belonged elsewhere such farmers would be out of luck.

The 13 appellants were invited by the settlement board to apply for the rights and to pay a $25 fee to cover costs and administration. Later the fee money was returned, with letters saying a check had disclosed that the mineral rights in their land remained with the Indian affairs branch, not the settlement board.

NICARAGUA MOBILIZES TO FIGHT HONDURAS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UP)—President Luis Somoza ordered a general mobilization of the army today "for the legal defence of our northern frontier" in Nicaragua's 50-year-old border dispute with Honduras.

In a statement issued at 5 a.m. after an all-night military conference Somoza said Nicaraguans would take up arms to repel Honduran aggression.

RAY'S STORY

Priest, Louis Did It

(Sugar Ray Robinson became the first man in boxing history to win the world middleweight title four times Wednesday night when he knocked out Gene Fullmer in the fifth round at Chicago. Here is his own story of the historic fight.)

By RAY ROBINSON
(Written for the United Press)

Two of my best friends—a fighting priest and a fighting ex-champion—joined hands in making me the middleweight champion of the world again.

They were Father Lane (The Rev. Jovian Lane of St. Joseph's Seminary, Westmont, Ill.), who gave me spiritual guidance, and Joe Louis, who gave me the benefit of his boxing experience.

I'm not a Catholic—I go to all churches—but Father Lane was kind and gracious enough to help me spiritually in my time of need. He's been with me before other fights and I've never lost when he's been in my corner.

It also must have been Divine Providence that enabled Louis to be with me throughout my training, and it was the hundreds of his little suggestions put together that enabled me to change my style sufficiently from my first fight to score the knockout that I felt was in me.

When a boxer gets older he's bound to lose some of his sharpness but it's impossible for him to recognize what's gone. Joe did that for me like the true friend he is. More than anything else, he taught me how to step back and punch as Fullmer came pressing in on me. That's what I just couldn't do in the first fight and it proved to be the difference this time.

Joe was a great stylist and a terrific boxer—a lot of people forget this because he was one of the greatest punchers of all time. But believe me, when he talked I listened—and I must have listened pretty good.

I'm not kidding myself a bit. I needed all the help I could get. This Fullmer is one rough cookie and I feel mighty fortunate that I won as I did. He's strong as a bull and takes a punch like few boys around these days. I drove home several good shots and all he did was blink and come back swinging.

He was a fairly easy target and I felt rather confident that one of those shots would have just a little extra something on it and he'd have to fall rather than blink.

I think I weakened him with a couple of sharp rights earlier in the fifth, which certainly helped when the opening presented itself as he charged in and I swung home the left hook that put him on the canvas.

MIDDLE EAST BIG FOUR

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials believe that Saudi Arabia and Jordan will join Egypt and Syria soon in creating a new show of Arab unity, despite their recent political conflict over Jordan's fate.

This prospect was advanced here today as one reason why the United States has not directly pointed a finger of blame at Egypt's President Nasser for his role in the Jordanian crisis.

U.S. policy and propaganda apparently are designed to take into account the desires, and purposes of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Hussein of Jordan. American officials say they do not believe that real unity can in fact be restored among the four, but if Saud and Hussein want to play Arab politics that way the U.S. evidently will not interfere.

Furthermore, officials do not want to get American policy in a position where the two Arab rulers could cut the ground from under it. That would happen if the kings showed outward friendship for Nasser and Syrian President Shukri Al Kuwraty when Washington was blaming the Arab presidents for much of the trouble.

Officials also feel that any outright U.S. attack on Nasser tends to strengthen his internal position in Egypt. Also, with the control of the Suez Canal now completely in his hands, Nasser is in position himself to make trouble for the West.

New Business Levy May Stop Tax Hike

Revised Plan Before Council This Afternoon

By PETE LOUDON

A revised plan for a Victoria business tax, which would be initiated this year, was expected to be approved at a special meeting of city council late today.

If adopted, it is expected to save the city from a threatened four-mill tax boost.

It was devised at a closed meeting of Ald. Hugh Ramsay's business tax committee Tuesday night.

Ald. Ramsay said he would ask council to rescind a previous business tax blueprint which was based on property assessments and chargeable against the owner of business premises.

He then intended to ask adoption of a business tax based on assessed rental values and charged to occupants of business premises.

"We will recommend the city assessor compile a separate tax roll of rental values and that this roll be completed by August 31 so that courts of revision can be held soon after."

The alderman said his committee, including Ald. Austin Curtis and Ald. E. D. McEwen, felt the actual amount to be raised by business tax should be decided by council when it is studying estimates next week.

"I would hazard a guess it would keep the proposed mill rate boost to a maximum of one mill," he said.

The provisional budget, due to be presented Friday, calls for a four-mill increase—$4 additional taxes for every $1,000 of assessed value—from city property holders.

The committee feels the proposed business tax will earn less in the first year than in later years, because it will cost an estimated $35,000 to set up the new tax roll.

The new tax, a set percentage of assessed rental values, is in line with authorization granted by the new Municipal Act and calls for no special legislation.

"We think this will eliminate all controversy at council level," said Ald. Ramsay.

"It will prove we sincerely want a business tax and will PRAYER FOR TODAY

We thank Thee, O God, for a risen and living Saviour. Let Him through the Holy Spirit be our constant companion and helpful guide. May our lives be so conducted as to honor His presence, reflecting His love in our dealing with others. Teach us to walk along His way and in His steps daily forever; in the name of our risen Lord. Amen.

NO MISFIRE WHEN OLD RIVALS MEET

PARRISBORO, N.S. (BUP)—Old friends and current political adversaries met accidentally on a street corner here today.

Conservative leader John Diefenbaker came upon Liberal Public Works Minister Robert Winters walking down the street.

Diefenbaker jumped out of his car and shook hands with Winters. As reporters flocked around and flashbulbs popped, Mr. Diefenbaker laughed and said, "now this is really something."

"Right in front of the town hall," Winters said. When Fred Davis, the official Conservative photographer snapped the picture of the two men, arm in arm, Mr. Winters said almost hopefully: "It misfired, didn't it?" Davis said it didn't.

St. Laurent Fires First Salvo in B.C.

(See also Pages 2, 9 and 28)
A four-day visit to British Columbia opened today for Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent as his "election special" train wound through the Rockies from Calgary.

His first campaigning was a 20-minute platform speech at Field, where the prime minister was met by James Byrne, Liberal MP for Kootenay East in the last Commons.

Mr. St. Laurent's busy round of speeches and hand-shaking begins in Vancouver Friday morning.

HERE SATURDAY

He will address a giant rally in Georgia Auditorium in the evening, travel to Nanaimo Saturday morning and arrive in Victoria by car at 5.30 p.m.

Meanwhile on the national campaign front there were these developments today:

1.—A French-language Progressive Conservative television broadcast in Montreal indicated the party intends to make an election issue of the Norman case.

Speaking on a CBC TV network, Leon Balcer, PC member of the last Parliament for Trois-Rivieres, said Canadians are entitled to know whether their government "employed a Communist ambassador" in one of the key world centres.

2. Revenue Minister McCann challenged the Progressive Conservatives to prove that the federal loan to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. was not of advantage to the country.

Dr. McCann referred in a speech at Campbell's Bay, Que., to the bitter Commons battle last spring over the government decision to lend Trans-Canada up to $80,000,000 toward construction of the Prairie leg of its proposed Alberta-Montreal natural gas pipeline.

"The $17,000,000 that was loaned by the government to the promoters of the pipeline was all paid back on schedule," he said, "and in addition to that the government collected $1,000,000 in interest. That was one of the best business propositions this country has ever entered into, and I defy anyone to point up a better deal."

SOL VIC SAYS:

Seems th' councillors are taxin' their imaginations t' find more taxes.

One thing that doesn't change about spring weather is that it's so changeable.

STORE NOW WINDOW SHOPPING

A car crashed through a plate glass window at the Me and Mc department store, Government Street, at 12.35 p.m. today, causing total damage of over $500 to car, window and an adjoining brick wall.

Driver of the car, Donald McNeven, 1642 Hollywood, said he was backing into a curb-side parking spot, when the automatic transmission stuck.

Pedestrians jumped to avoid injury as glass showered outside and inside the window.

FREEDOM, NEW LIFE WON FOR NEW CANADIANS

Separated 13 years by the Iron Curtain, the family of Pacific Club steward Josef Heimbach, right, was reunited midnight Wednesday at Patricia Bay airport. Horst, left, is 16; was three when last seen by his father. Wife Elena, exhausted by eight days of questioning by Rumanian and Canadian officials, confused by language difficulties, rested today. The Heimbachs have been apart since Josef was drafted into the German navy in 1944. When Russia took over Rumania, he could not return nor get his family out. Miracle reunion was effected by Red Cross. Society has worked on the Heimbach case almost four years. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

ON THE HUSTINGS

Prime Minister To Go Fishing At Brentwood Bay

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent will take time off from his strenuous campaigning Sunday to go fishing in Brentwood Bay.

An enthusiastic fisherman, Mr. St. Laurent will try to hook a salmon from the deck of the yacht Fifer, which is bringing him to Nanaimo from Vancouver Saturday morning.

The prime minister will motor down Island Saturday, arriving in Victoria at 5.30 p.m. At 7 p.m. Alistair Fraser, Liberal candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich, will hold a reception for Mr. St. Laurent in the Empress Hotel.

An hour later the prime minister will arrive at the Royal Theatre for a giant Liberal rally attended by the four Vancouver Island candidates. Defence Minister Ralph Campney also will speak.

On Sunday, Mr. St. Laurent will attend Mass at St. Andrew's Cathedral at 9 a.m. and then pay a visit to Veterans' Hospital where he will speak to the assembled patients.

For the rest of the day until he leaves Patricia Bay airport at 5 p.m. for Vancouver he will be "gone fishing."

Gen. Pearkes, officially nominated Tuesday night, will begin his speaking tour in Port Renfrew next Monday. He will speak in View Royal on Thursday, Marigold Friday and Metchison on the following Monday, May 13.

On the rest of that week Gen. Pearkes will be on the mainland campaigning for other candidates.

Trustees Lift Ban on Political Meetings

An old ban on holding political meetings in schools was rescinded by Courtenay school board this week.

As a result, national Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker will speak in Courtenay High School auditorium May 22.

Harold Winch was nominated without opposition Wednesday night by CCF delegates in Vancouver East, the riding he first won in 1953.

Mr. Winch, long-time CCF leader in B.C., expounded a platform of social welfare provisions and a "return to a democratic Parliament."

He urged the introduction by the next federal government of a capital gains tax, adoption of a national health insurance scheme and a minimum $75 monthly old-age pension, expansion of home-ownership and

Zucco Story 'Shameful', Says Turner

VANCOUVER (CP) — A CCF MLA today attacked the Social Credit government for rejecting a petition of right filed by a disabled miner.

Arthur Turner, Vancouver East, said the rejection shows that the government is afraid to "enforce its own legislation."

The petition was filed last November for Jack Zucco of New Westminster in the miner's long fight to receive a full silicosis pension from the Workmen's Compensation Board.

"The whole story is a shameful sequence of events in which the claimant has proven that the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act, aided and abetted by the provincial government, has degenerated from a farce to a tragedy," said Mr. Turner.

He said Zucco, after using all legal avenues to prove his claim, has been denied the right to prove the Compensation Board is "guilty of maladministration of the act."

He said the "legality of the board is now seriously challenged."

Delay to Fall Indicated

In Sommers' Case

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prospects that the trial of Robert Sommers' slander action against lawyer David Sturdy will proceed on the appointed date of June 3 dimmed today.

Alfred Bull, counsel for Mr. Sommers, said in court of appeal that an application to the Supreme Court of Canada for leave to appeal an order of Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan allowing Mr. Sturdy to inspect bank accounts will not be heard until sometime in June.

The long court vacation will prevent trial sittings during July and August, and indications are that the case will not be tried until September or October.

Premier Bennett Opens Kelowna Plywood Plant

KELOWNA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett Wednesday officially opened a new $1,500,000 plywood plant in Kelowna. The factory was built by S. M. Simpson Ltd., one of the largest lumber operators in the B.C. interior.

ister will arrive at the Royal Theatre for a giant Liberal rally attended by the four Vancouver Island candidates. Defence Minister Ralph Campney also will speak.

On Sunday, Mr. St. Laurent will attend Mass at St. Andrew's Cathedral at 9 a.m. and then pay a visit to Veterans' Hospital where he will speak to the assembled patients.

U.S. Marines Right at Home Amid Belly-Dancing Lebanese

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP)—It was difficult to tell today who was getting a bigger kick out of the U.S. Sixth Fleet's visit to the Middle East—Marines on shore liberty or their Lebanese hosts.

Lt.-Col. Andrew I. Lyman, of camp LeJeune, N.C., said his troops found Beirut like Las Vegas with a touch of Paris and the Lebanese people as cordial as they could be.

"The boys have had a great time admiring that honorable institution of belly dancing in the nightclubs here," Lyman said. "But we still have some pretty good belly dancing back in Boston."

Maj. Robert Hiliard Barrow, of St. Francisville, La., said the Marines were having such a good time here they did not regret having their six-day liberty in

Italy cancelled when the fleet got sudden sailing orders last week. One-third of the 1,500 Marines with the fleet have been allowed in Beirut each day from noon to 11 p.m. Cabarets scheduled earlier shows—"and most elaborate"—so the leathernecks could see them before returning to quarters. Barrow said he went into one nightclub and had two drinks but the owner refused payment, saying they were on the house.

Eisenhower Defends Foreign Aid Policy

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Eisenhower made a strong plea Wednesday against cutting foreign aid funds, and said: "Let's not throw away one of the engines of the ship of state."

He was speaking informally to members of the National Council of the League of Women Voters, who called on him at the White House. Eisenhower said he would like to go out of office in 1960 with "an even bigger tax cut" than in 1954. But he said that all he would like to accomplish in the field of economy and tax reductions came back finally to the problem of foreign policy.

Some Congress members are trying to reduce the president's record peacetime budget and have made foreign aid one of their main targets.

Busy Week

THIS will have to be a disjointed kind of column because it's been a disjointed, silly sort of week.

But, between the various excitements and commotions, I've managed to do some casual reading.

I've been re-reading George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" because it's years since I first read it, and our LP record of "My Fair Lady" made me want to read it again. It's added greatly to my enjoyment of the record. I've seen how the original dialogue was used in the formation of the lyrics. I'd forgotten, too, that the Preface to "Pygmalion" is concerned with Shaw's pet enthusiasm, a phonetic alphabet. And, from his will, we all know nowadays how he felt about it.

The LP record has given us hours of pleasure, and, as far as I'm concerned, has been a welcome change from Elvis Presley and Harry Belafonte, since I'm not the calypso-type myself, and what with the combined roles of farmer's wife, column writer and mother to three teen-agers, I hardly need Elvis to make me all shook up!

I've also listened fairly often to the record of Dimitri Tiomkin's music from the sound track of the movie, "Giant." As I missed the movie, the music was new to me. Nor did I know that Tiomkin had won Academy Awards for the music of "High Noon" and for his scoring of "The High and the Mighty."

(I often wonder which films my young will remember best when they grow up. Which films really impressed you when you were young? Quickly, those I remember best were René Clair's "Sous Les Toits de Paris," Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night," Edna May Oliver in "Ladies of the Night," Sylvia Sydney in "Street Scene," and last but not least, Marlene Dietrich and Emil Jannings in "The Blue Angel." I wonder what I'd think of them if I were suddenly to see them all again?

For fun, I've been re-reading parts of Monica Dickens' novel, "Mariana," and I laughed again at her description of the riders in London's Rotten Row—"old men shaking up their livers, and young girls shaking up their bosoms." I love that. It's such a cheerful description of something we all notice, though a lot of us pretend we don't.

Somehow, I can't imagine a Canadian writing about the female bosom in that light descriptive fashion. We'd either exult or disapprove. Because in North America the bosom is taken very seriously. Just part of our adolescence, I guess. But we'll grow up in time.

A friend who sent me a clipping of an article in The Atlantic has made me think of Dr. Norman Vincent Peale. Not that I want to think of Dr. Peale, but these days it's quite hard to escape him. The writer of the article doesn't care for Dr. Peale, either.

The new faith (in America), he says, has little to do with the old-fashioned faith as Saint Paul conceived it—the faith of a contrite Christian humbly imploring the mercy and guidance of the Almighty to fight off sin and temptation. That was a negative faith, he says. Nowadays we must be positive, positive that if we have faith we can go right out and get just what we want, even if all we want is to make a better go of our business.

And that, I think, sums up Dr. Peale very nicely.

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

As I said recently, I often marvel at the curious ways in which our courts deal with the problems of the insane. If a pretty blonde shoots to death a man who changed his mind and refused to marry her, there is always a chance that an "expert" will testify that when she pulled the trigger she did not know right from wrong and did not realize the consequences of her act. Under these circumstances, she can be judged temporarily insane, and then she can be put in a mental hospital until things blow over. But if a person who has always been so queer that his family, his friends and his townfolk have looked on him as crazy, commits a particularly atrocious and senseless murder, he is very likely to be hanged forthwith. The community will demand that he be "punished."

I remember an eccentric young man of low intelligence who married a sweet girl and took her out to his father's ranch for their honeymoon. A few days later he blew a big hole through her with a shotgun, and then went up the creek to catch some trout. When asked why he had done it, he said because the Voices had told him to.

The people in the community were so outraged at this "brutal and pointless" murder, and at the trial they were so angered because the lad showed not the slightest regret for what he had done, that he was quickly hanged. As I remember, the defence decided that with public sentiment so strong against the man it was hardly worth while to present the facts that would have shown that he had never been quite sane.

I fear that in some courts today the best evidence as to a man's psychosis, such as would have to be given by relatives and friends, could be ruled out as not coming from qualified psychiatrists. I do know that a while ago, when it was essential to show that a testator was so blind he could hardly get around, his best friends, when on the stand, were not allowed to mention this. The opposing attorney's objection that these friends were not qualified eye-witnesses was upheld. I did not question the judge's desire to be fair, but I was distressed to see that about all he was doing was to umple the curious game that was being played by the two opposing attorneys. So far as I could see, he made no effort to find out what the case was all about.

THE "MAD BOMBER"

I was led to write this on reading about the man in New York, who, for a long time, was exploding bombs in public places. His reason for endangering the lives of hundreds of innocent people who were strangers to him was that when his lungs gave him trouble he was satisfied that the people for whom he had been working were in some way culpable.

His behavior was so typically that of a paranoiac that I doubt if one could find many psychiatrists who would feel the need even for interviewing him before declaring him insane.

But now I read that a judge says he must be tried. Why? According to the newspaper account, the court must go through the ancient game of seeming to determine whether, when the man was planting a bomb (one particular bomb), he knew right from wrong, and realized the consequences of his act!

The fact is ignored that no one can ever determine such a thing definitely, and even if one could, there wouldn't be any sense in doing it. No psychiatrist when judging of the sanity of a man in his office, worries about his knowledge of right and wrong. What the doctor wants to know is how the fellow has been behaving and thinking, and what reasons he gives for his peculiar behavior. In judging of a man's sanity, I always depend much on what a man's relatives think about him. Why? Because many a psychotic man can fool many people into accepting him as sane, but seldom can he fool his wife and his other close relatives.

Why cannot the judge just ask the eminent psychiatrists who have seen this bomber-exploder and who know about his behavior if he has been behaving in a way absolutely characteristic of a certain type of insane man? If he has, why waste time trying him?

HEREDITARY DIFFERENCES

We all know that certain men and women, from childhood, are very active and wide-awake. They are curious about most things; they want to explore any place into which they have been put; and some, because of their constant curiosity, eventually become able research workers. Other people from childhood on have very little interest in their surroundings; they don't care to explore much; they are not curious about anything, and hence they could never be of much use in a research laboratory.

Now, I read an article by William R. Thompson, in which he tells of the striking differences in the "exploratory activity" of a number of strains of mice bred in the laboratory. Some mice, when put into a new box, will immediately run all over the place and explore it thoroughly, while mice from another strain will just sit quietly. Since in such experiments the factor of environment is held constant, these differences in curiosity are evidently inherited and hereditary in nature.

PM Fights Best When Cornered

By KEITH DAVIDSON

CALGARY (BUP) — Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent is something like a fighter.

When stung, he counters well. It was thus at Calgary Wednesday night as it was the night before at Edmonton in his election tour of Sacred Alberta, before entering B.C. today.

His speeches on these two occasions were enlivened by clashes with insistent hecklers.

And the biting comment with which the prime minister repulsed the interference added the fire and brimstone of politics from his prepared address.

Wednesday, here, he squashed an insistent heckler — a spectacled youth slouching in a balcony seat over the prime minister's head — with rapid-fire answers.

At one stage Mr. St. Laurent was describing why the government felt it was in the nation's interests to force the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline through parliament last year. "The man shouted: 'That's how the pipeline got through, eh?'"

The prime minister peered up to him, flung his right arm in his direction, and said, "well, perhaps if the honorable gentleman were listening, he would learn something, too."

Later, Mr. St. Laurent was urging Calgary South voters to elect Mayor Don Mackay, a Liberal candidate, to the Commons, when the youth called out: "Is he going to be your yes man?"

After another interruption by the youth, Mr. St. Laurent silenced him for the remainder of the meeting by telling him "you are making yourself tired and I know you are making lots of other people tired."

VICTORIA SATURDAY

Mr. St. Laurent, his daughter, Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, his officials and newsmen were scheduled to make their first stop today at Field.

He will be in Nanaimo and Southern Vancouver Island Saturday and speak on a big rally in Victoria Saturday night.

Social Credit aspirations to govern Canada came under withering fire from the prime minister here.

The nation could never have come so far since confederation if it had been under the "purely regional or special interest party, with incomprehensible theories" that govern Alberta and British Columbia, he said.

Mr. St. Laurent also lashed at United States give-away farm produce policies for the second night in succession.

He said that while Canada had been able to maintain her share of the world market, this had not been enough to enable the country to dispose of the wheat on the farms of Western Canada.

The Prime Minister said Canada could not match the U.S. program and did not want to "get into a price war with our American friends."

"Our only alternative has been to adopt a very vigorous sales policy," he said, "and we still believe that the Canadian Wheat Board is the best agency to carry out that marketing program."

Sniping at the Sacred party, he said: Canadians generally "could not and, indeed, would not swallow" Social Credit theories for government.

SEVEN CITY PLAYERS FACE BARBARIANS HERE

Victoria English rugby enthusiasts received good news Wednesday night when B.C. Rugby Union president, Bob Spray, of Vancouver, announced that seven Victoria players would hold positions on the B.C. All-Star team scheduled to meet Britain's Barbarians at Macdonald Park Wednesday night.

Captaining the B.C. team for the Victoria game is veteran JBAA fullback Frank Gower, who will have team-mate Harry Turner at prop forward and Wanderers' Gary Webster at scrum-half, Ray Calton at stand-off and Paul Beck at wing forward.

Representing Victoria College Vikings on the host club will be hook Stu Smith and tail-up Mike Kaye.

Two ex-Victorians will be playing on the side—John Newton and Jim McWilliams, representatives of Vancouver Meralomas.

Remainder of the team will be made up of Vancouver and UBC players.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

Hard-Boiled Haggerty is the absolute greatest in just about anything you would care to mention. Don't dispute me on this point. Just ask Haggerty. He'll tell you.

Among other things, Hard-Boiled claims to be:
The greatest wrestler in the world.
The best-dressed gentleman in sports.
A genuine lover of The Symphony.

The greatest football player who ever got kicked out of three colleges and two pro teams.

The most eligible bachelor alive.

These are about the only details Haggerty cares to discuss about his life because he detests boasting.

For instance, he won't tell anyone how old he is. Nor will he reveal how much money he is worth.

It is generally thought that he makes in the neighborhood of $40,000 a year. And that is a nice neighborhood, even for a professional wrestler.

Prefers Finer Things, Like Diamonds

While he makes his living rending bones and shredding flesh, Hard-Boiled likes the finer things of life.

He's wild about diamonds and Cadillacs and he claims that fine music is an integral part of his life.

"A lot of these people which attend symphonies must be rassling fans," he says, "cause they really flip when they see ol' Hard-Boiled come in, all duked up in white tie and tails."

Concerning his football career, Hard-Boiled only wishes the game had been tougher so that his temper would not have seemed so out of place.

He got the boot from three different colleges for being hard to get along with, the last of which was Texas Christian.

There, he came to blows and grief with a team-mate and was pitched off the squad. But not before coach Dutch Meyers groaned sadly, "If Haggerty could control his temper, he would be the greatest tackle in football."

This temper was a tremendous selling point to the pros and the Detroit Lions eagerly embraced him with their hairy arms.

But it happened here, too.

Lions' fatherly and patient coach Bo McMillan, after several wild rhuabars, traded Haggerty to the Green Bay Packers.

But with the Packers, he caused so many quarrels with his team-mates that he was dealt off to the Chicago Bears.

While at Bears' camp, he decided that football had no future in Hard-Boiled Haggerty and so he started working the tank-towns and one-nighters on the wrestling circuit.

The backwoods couldn't hide this diamond in the rough for long and in no time promoters were standing in line at his door, waving fat contracts.

About this temper, Hard-Boiled says, "I want everyone to know I am no maniac. I have a bad temper but I try to curb it. Lots of people want to quit smoking but can't lose the habit. With me, it's getting mad. I can't seem to stop."

Greets Postman With Water Bucket

Being an advertised tough guy has its drawbacks, Haggerty claims.

"My phone is forever ringing with guys saying, 'Hey, you big meatball, what makes you think you're so tough?'"

"I just give them my address and invite them to drop over. They don't."

"Any time I get a package in the mail, I always soak it in a bucket of water. Mostly, it's presents, but you never know when someone is going to send a bomb."

In this respect, Hard-Boiled has a perfect record. He has never once been blown up.

As a boy of 11 in New York's toughest district, young Donald Haggerty was set upon by three older boys, each of whom he thrashed in succession. He says he has never been afraid of a two-legged man since.

Lee Savold once told Hard-Boiled that if he trained properly, he could be a heavyweight boxing champion.

"Savold wasn't telling me anything I didn't know."

Haggerty once challenged Rocky Marciano to a rough and tumble match with no holds or punches barred. It was not accepted.

"Guess Rocky was afraid of me."

As for romance, Haggerty is in love with himself and married to wrestling. He will escort a dolly on occasion but, really, where could he find better company than himself?

BOLD RULER FAVORED

Gen. Duke's Injury Boosts Derby Field

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Ten horses were entered today in the $125,000 added Kentucky Derby as the entry box closed 48 hours before for the first of the triple crown classics Saturday.

Even though he turned up lame with a bad bruise yesterday, Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke, along with stablemate Iron Liege, was named for the mile and one-quarter spectacle.

The others for whom owners were to pay the $250 to pass through the entry box were Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler, Ralph Lowe's Gallant Man, Kerr Stable's Round Table, Clifford Lusk's Federal Hill, T. Alie Grissom's Shan Pac, William S. Miller's Better Bee, Ada L. Rice's Indian Creek, and John L. Appelbaum's Mister Jive.

Mr. Jive joined the field late Wednesday when news of Gen. Duke's injury spread.

The colt, jointly owned by Appelbaum and Vern Martin, was scheduled to arrive at Louisville at 9 a.m. today.

Martin intended to drive all night to be at Louisville when the horse arrived. He wired the entry fee in the event he did not arrive at Churchill Downs before the box closed.

There is a $1,250 starting payment for those horses which actually get to the post. Coupled with the $100 original nomination fee that makes a total cost of $1,600 to run a horse in the Kentucky Derby.

Riding assignments were completed yesterday after a last-minute scramble by Johnny Nerud, trainer of Gallant Man. He had planned to have John Choquette ride the horse but Choquette was given a 10-day suspension by the stewards at Jamaica, Nerud then signed up Willie Shoemaker, who will fly in from California.

ARCARO ON BOLD RULER
Eddie Arcaro, riding in his 18th Kentucky Derby and seeking a sixth win, rides Bold Ruler, who now looms as favorite for the race. John Fitzsimmons, son of trainer Jim Fitzsimmons, filled in an entry blank yesterday and deposited it in the secretary's office. But it did not become effective until today.

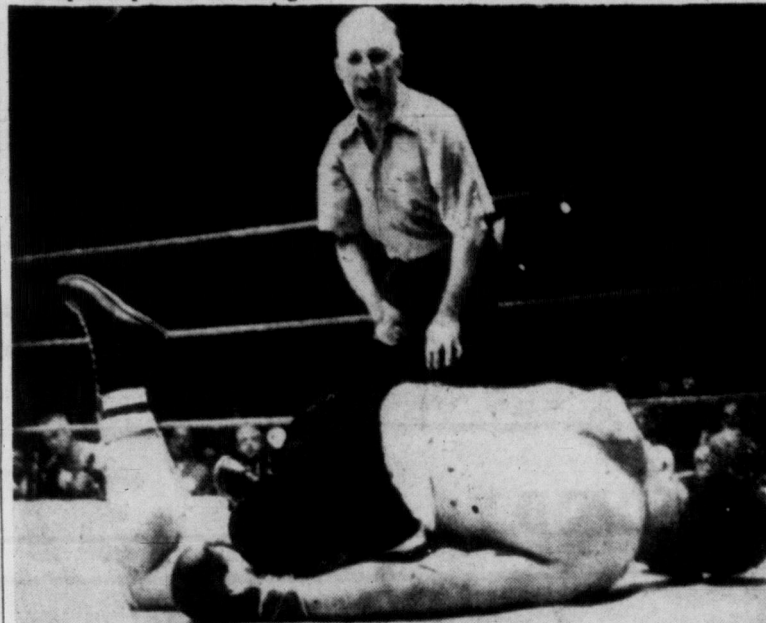

Bill Hartack rides Gen. Duke and Dave Erb rides Iron Liege.

SETTING UP FINAL SHOT

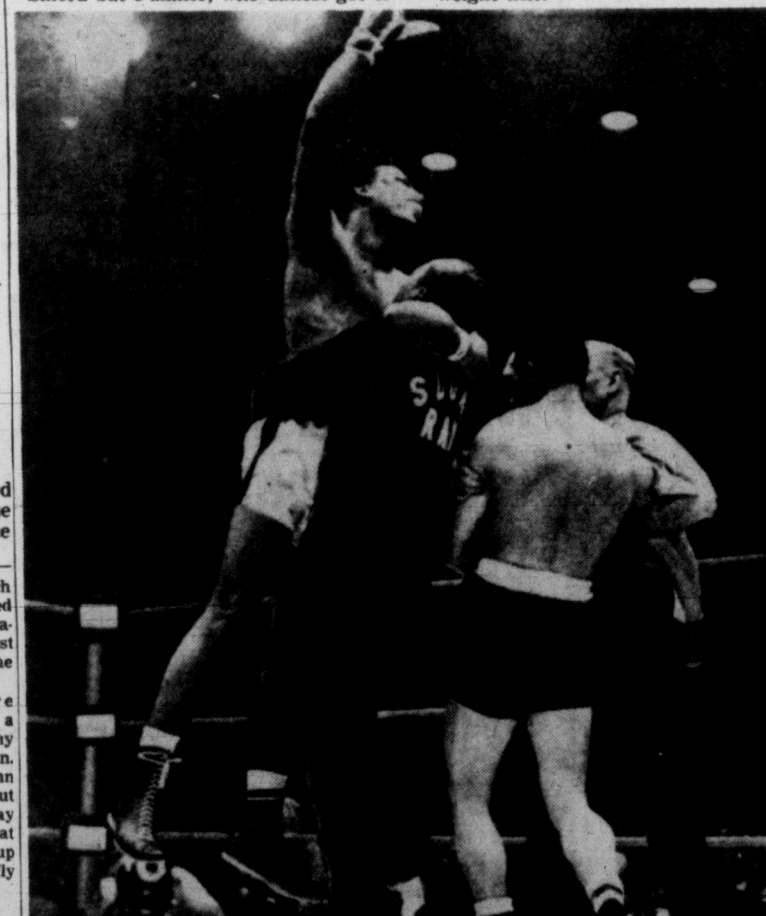

Grimacing with exertion, Sugar Ray Robinson drives a thumping right hand into the ribs of middleweight champion Gene Fullmer in the fifth round of their championship bout in Chicago. The body blow forced Fullmer to drop his guard and Robinson followed up with a whistling left hook that knocked out Fullmer and put crown on Robinson's head for fourth time.

THE COUNT IS TOLLED over the prostrate Fullmer by referee Frank Sikora but Fullmer, who almost got to his feet, pitched back to the canvas and was counted out of his middleweight title.

HELD ALOFT by manager Killer Johnston, Robinson waves a triumphant arm to his fans as Fullmer, still dazed, is led to his corner by referee Sikora, no longer the world champion. (AP Wirephoto.)

Pils Tough Stuff

Rocks Win, 17-11
But Kids Impress

By DENNY BOYD

Just a couple of hours after Ray Robinson struck his blow for the aged, the Vancouver Pilseners popped up as the biggest boost to the younger generation since the Baby Bonus.

Jack McKinnon's eminently unwhiskered Pilseners, mere babes in the Intercity Lacrosse League woods, didn't beat the Victoria Shamrocks here Wednesday night. They absorbed a fairly rough 17-11 defeat, but even in defeat they showed enough to brand them as a definite threat for the not-too-distant future.

The loss was accepted with satisfaction by freshman coach Jack McKinnon, who bubbled, "we're going to come along before very long. If we can pick up a couple of veterans for anchors, we should be able to hurt someone in this league."

However, the win was not at all satisfactory to Shamrock coach Whitley Severson, who let it be known that he is anything but happy with the Shamrocks' attitude towards checking.

WARNING ISSUED

He said, "our checking was the worst—the absolute worst. Some of the guys just won't work at it. They probably are forgetting that Bremner, Dobbie and Gear aren't here yet. There are going to be some cuts on this club and no fooling about it."

Still, for the 2,900 fans it was a pleasing piece of entertainment as the Rocks got their second straight victory of the season.

Jack Bionda put on his usual display of pyrotechnics, ripping in four goals and adding an assist.

His two middle goals not only broke up the game when the Pils were threatening, but they showed Bionda is almost able to score at will.

Angered at having his nose sliced open, Bionda forgot all about his teammates and took on the Pils by himself for three frantic minutes of the fourth quarter.

First, he stole the ball out of Bob Stewart's stick, rambled through the Pilsener defence and ripped a shot past goalie Normie Lee.

FOUR FOR GILL

Al Gill jostled Bionda on the scoring podium, exploding for four goals while Lew Landess, Bert Bertoia each had a pair and Jackie Northup had his second straight four-assist night.

The acrobatic Lee, one of three Pilsener goalies, was the brightest light for his club. The doughy little netminder, knocked cold by a Gill check when he wandered out of his crease in the third quarter, had a hopping time all night with the Shamrock forwards but never quitting.

Don Hamilton, subbing for Gordie Johnston in the Shamrock nets as Johnston started his ulcer-enforced layoff, kicked out 26 shots as the bustling Pilsener forwards tested him often and skillfully.

Robinson Regains Title With Dramatic Knockout

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

CHICAGO—Sugar Ray Robinson brushed back the years for one electrifying burst of violence Wednesday night to knock out champion Gene Fullmer with a left hook to the jaw in 1.27 of the fifth round.

Thus the Sugar Man became the first man ever to win the world middleweight title four times.

Robinson, a 3½-to-1 underdog, softened up the 25-year-old champion with two solid right hand punches to the body and then drove home a terrific left that dropped Fullmer to the Chicago Stadium deck.

Writhing on the canvas, Fullmer attempted to get up. But he jack-knifed back on his face and was counted out by referee Frank Sikora, the first time he had been stopped in his 44-bout career.

Robinson indicated today he will defend against welterweight ruler Carmen Basilio in a mid-July million-dollar fight.

Fresh from his spectacular fifth-round knockout—the most glorious victory of his 17-year career—Sugar Ray said, "I'll be ready to match my new matador-bull style against Basilio any time the money is right."

The 36-year-old "matador" blasted the bull-necked, bull-shouldered Fullmer to the canvas for a knockout in Chicago Stadium before 14,753 fans.

Fullmer, who had taken the title from Robinson on a unanimous decision last January, was hit so hard that he said, "I never knew what happened to me until they were telling me in the corner I was counted out."

Sugar Ray is such an attraction now that promoter Jim Norris believes a defence against rugged Basilio, another who never was stopped, should draw close to a million dollars at New York's Yankee Stadium, probably July 16 or 23.

Although the record books say Robinson will be 37 Friday, he insists his correct age will be 36. In any event, he punched with his effectiveness of old in that one blinding flurry that ended Fullmer's reign at one day short of four months.

The action was close Wednesday night until the sudden ending. Fullmer waded in with wild right-hand leads in the first round while Robinson fought back in the first clinch without holding as he had done in their earlier bout.

Sugar Ray drew cheers from the crowd with a solid right uppercut midway in the first but Fullmer charged back and was rounding him up in his own corner at the two-minute mark.

When Robinson finally got his chance to turn it on he let loose with both hands with deadening effect. When Sugar Ray tried to punch in bursts last January, Fullmer merely shook off the blows and came in stronger than ever.

Two Rights Set Up Finishing Left

Robinson moved out of his corner fast at the beginning of the third. He was at mid-ring before Fullmer was off his stool.

However, a crashing right to the ribs by Fullmer slowed him down.

Robinson was beginning to find his target in the fourth. With about 45 seconds to go he caught Fullmer with a series of punches ending with a hook to the head.

Instead of backing off to take cover, Fullmer rushed Ray into his own corner and held off the attack for the rest of the round.

Zulueta Gets Chance At Lightweight Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Promoter Joe Dupler of Denver said Wednesday lightweight champion Joe Brown of New Orleans had agreed to defend his title against Orlando Zulueta at Denver "sometime in June."

Dupler said the exact date would be announced.

Pub Owners' Delegation Wants 15 Cent Beer Price

An increase in the price of draught beer to 15 cents a glass or two for 25 cents is sought by B.C. hotel operators.

A delegation from the B.C. Hotels Association, representing 392 pub owners, was in Victoria today seeking government approval.

They were to meet Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Liquor Control Board chairman

MONTIE ROBERTS

Stories about Kite Kiddies, I can take them or leave them alone.

For instance:

There was this young lady, all of nearly-almost three years old.

And she noticed a small ant crawling along the sidewalk. And it appears she did not take kindly to the presence of the small ant, because she cried out to her daddy-o:

"Daddy, Daddy—hit he wif a banger."

It was this same young lady who took to fooling around with the golf clubs which were the pride and joy of her daddy-o.

And her daddy-o, who is not only an indulgent parent but an avid (though incompetent) golfer, asked himself "Could it be we have a real golfer in the family?"

So he encouraged her by letting her take a slightly ancient putter, a wooden-shaft job, and try swinging it—just like daddy does, only better.

This young lady attempted with great enthusiasm, but considerable danger to her chin, which was too close to the ground and therefore became banged by the handle of the putter as she swung same.

So daddy-o made the supreme sacrifice.

He took the club down to the basement and sawed off a suitable length of the handle.

Then he presented the cut-down club to his young daughter.

Do you think she would have anything to do with the club?

Naturally not.

Even at nearly-almost three, a young lady is still feminine.

And then there was this young man, about the same age as the protagonist in the above anecdotes, who made a rather strange request to his mother.

To give you a mite of help, he made the request toward the middle of December.

And what he said was "please may I have a piece of chong ching?"

"Whatever for asked his mother.

"Want a piece of chong ching to string led bellies on the piffen tree," explained the young man.

Which his mother understood perfectly.

Do you?

Come to think of it, stories about Kite Kiddies, I can take them. But I'd rather leave them alone.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Clothing and furniture are needed urgently for new immigrants here. Mrs. Sally Rogers of the Catholic Immigration Organization said today.

The group assists all immigrants where possible.

Latest arrivals here were 50 Hungarians on Monday.

Persons wishing to donate items are requested to contact Mrs. Rogers at her home, 42 South Turner, or telephone 2-3527 and goods will be picked up.

Outdoor Club of Victoria will explore the West Coast trail beyond Jordan River this Sunday. Members will meet at the Veterans' Stage Depot, Herald Street, at 9 a.m. Further information may be obtained from Maureen Evans, 2-1182.

"Grand weather you have here," a breezy visitor from southern California told one of the staff at Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau today.

The publicity man had a quick comeback.

"This is about the worst weather we've had this year," he said.

Western Canada junior basketball champions, Victoria College Vikings, were to be presented with crested jackets at a meeting of city council this afternoon. The team recently reached dominion finals and was defeated by a Toronto team in that city.

Ex-Saanich Chief At Seattle for Sister's Funeral

Sister of former Saanich police chief Josiah Bull, Mrs. C. A. Newinger, has died at her Seattle home, it was learned today.

Mr. and Mrs. Bull are in Seattle for the funeral.

Victoria born and educated, Mrs. Newinger was aged 65.

She is survived by her husband, Clarence; two daughters, Mrs. Jack Garthley, Edmonds, Wash., and Mrs. A. Crist, Seattle, and nine brothers and sisters.

These are Josiah, Saanich; Edward, Victoria; Tom, Victoria; Joseph, Duncan; Mrs. C. Rowland, Vancouver; Mrs. W. Green, New Westminster; Mrs. G. Robinson, Victoria; Mrs. F. Webb, Victoria; and Mrs. Herb Price, Seattle.

Donald McGugan, but Mr. McGugan said this morning he knew nothing about the meeting.

Mr. McGugan did issue a statement about the situation in Prince Rupert where seven hotel operators hiked their prices, then backed down.

"Yesterday the licencees at Prince Rupert went back to 10 cents a glass rather than surrender their licences," the LCB chairman said.

"Regardless of arguments that may be advanced for variations in the price of draught beer, I wish to make it very clear that the Liquor Control Board and the licencees of the province operate under the government Liquor Act.

"The board will see that the act is observed in its entirety."

The hotelmen are seeking the price increase to offset a recent 15-cent-an-hour wage hike for tapmen and waiters.

After the Prince Rupert operators raised their prices without LCB sanction, Mr. McGugan called for the surrender of their licences.

But when they tried to turn them in, no one would accept them.

The next day the operators went back to the old price.

Pt. Angeles Excursion Wednesday

A special one-day excursion to Port Angeles, which includes a tour of the Olympic game reserve, has been arranged by the Chamber of Commerce for Victorians in conjunction with the city's gala Springtime Festival.

Victorians will leave aboard a CPR ferry for Port Angeles at 9:20 a.m. daylight saving time, next Wednesday. The ferry will leave at 8:20 p.m., arriving here at 10 o'clock.

The special tour was made possible through the co-operation of the Port Angeles Chamber of Commerce which has arranged to conduct Victorians to beauty spots on the Olympic peninsula.

$6.50 COVERS COST

Price for the tour, including the ferry fare, will be $6.50.

Meanwhile, hundreds of visitors today continued to visit some of the city's most beautiful private gardens which have been opened to the public for the Springtime Festival.

The gardens are open from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The gardens with the multi-colored blooms and ornamental trees are making a big hit with U.S. visitors.

"I've never seen gardens like those in Victoria," said Mrs. H. A. Drack, Portland, Oregon.

"They are worth returning to see next year."

The only complaint from the garden visitors was the lack of sufficient guides to identify the plants and trees in the gardens.

"I would have liked to have taken down some names of the plants but there was no one around to tell me what they were," said Mrs. Frank Swenson of Spokane, Seattle.

Gardens visited today were those of: Dr. Thomas Mercer, 2750 Tudor Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Anson Firth, 2676 Queenswood Drive; and Mrs. M. L. Sayward-Wilson, 2670 Queenswood Drive.

The festival Friday will feature the Canadian Folk Society Folk dances at Central Junior High School, starting at 8 p.m.

City police have traced the rider of a bicycle which was in collision with Dianne Baird, 13, 518 Sumas, Monday night, and plan to lay a charge.

The girl is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital where she was taken with head injury after an unidentified cyclist sent her flying in an accident just outside the doorway of a Douglas Street grocery.

Police said the rider paused to adjust his bicycle and left the scene.

Provincial government offices will be closed Monday, May 20, for observance of the Queen's birthday and Victoria Day holiday.

The museum will be open.

Two persons received minor injuries in a two-car collision Wednesday evening at Bay and Douglas and were treated at Jubilee Hospital.

Anne Davis, 36, 1264 McKenzie, was treated for a shoulder injury, and Ray Stanyer, 61, 422 John, for a head cut. They were passengers in a car driven by Sidney Thormoe, 416 John, who was driving west on Bay when in collision with a car driven south on Douglas by June Marie Anderson, 1320 Hill side.

RHUBARB WITH AMBITION

Rhubarb plant in garden of Mrs. Roy Lund, 2546 Dalhousie, is doing its blooming well best to make like a flower during spring festival week. Most rhubarbs are content to look forward to a career as potential pie fillings; not this one, which flouted nature's laws to blossom forth, with much enthusiasm but questionable eye-appeal. Gorge Swim Centre Proposed by Kinsmen

A plan to use Kinsmen bingo, Plan under study calls for profits for development of a erection of bath houses and Gorge Park swimming centre will be discussed by Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks committee and service club officials next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

Kinsmen president Stan Mossop said today the amount the club is willing to spend depends on a co-operative arrangement with the intermunicipal parks officials.

Some park clearing would be undertaken.

The five bingos staged by the clubmen at Memorial Arena are reported to have provided a fund of close to $21,000.

Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society president George E. Williams said Wednesday night his organization had hoped for a Kinsmen grant toward a planned $75,000 low-rent housing unit for pensioners.

If the Kinsmen turn over funds on hand to the Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee, the service club will be asked for other special aid.

The club will be asked to either hold a special bingo for the housing unit or conduct a special door-to-door, one-night fund-raising campaign.

Kinsmen president Mossop could not comment on these requests today.

BIG-LEAGUE STATUS AWARDED HARD TO FAN OUT DANDELION

Recognition of a kind has come to the lowly dandelion. A provincial order-in-council Wednesday officially declared it a "noxious weed."

This puts the dandelion (Taraxacum spp. Zinn.) in the same league as couch grass, redroot and Russian thistle.

Under the Noxious Weed Act any landowner with these and other pests on his property can be ordered by an agriculture department inspector to destroy them.

2 Sooke Men Charged With Arson

Two Sooke men were arrested and charged with arson Wednesday night after a three-day investigation by the RCMP and the fire marshal's effort into cause of a fire which destroyed a barn filled with hay Saturday night.

In custody are Rudolph Arthur Vowles, 23, and Stephen Gregory Ward, 19, both of Sooke Boarding House.

They appeared today before Magistrate Fred Thornber at Sooke and were remanded without plea to next Wednesday in Colwood RCMP court. Bail was not set.

About 40 persons were interviewed during the investigation by Const. Don Knight of Sooke detachment, and fire marshal Alex Masterton, from Vancouver.

Built more than 60 years ago, the 50 by 100-foot barn was a Sooke village landmark and was constructed of squared, doweled timbers, 24 by 24 inches.

Flames were noticed shortly before 10:45 p.m. Saturday, when the alarm was turned in. Sooke volunteer firemen were attending their first annual ball at the time.

DOCTOR WARNS:

'Do It Now' For Polio Protection

Dr. Gavin Chisholm, president of the Victoria Medical Society, today urged everyone to take advantage of local doctors' "Operation Polio" despite reports the provincial health program will provide free injections of Salk vaccine next year.

"It is very gratifying that the public health authorities hope to be able to supply vaccine at some future date," Dr. Chisholm said.

UNPROTECTED

"But even if it is available at the end of 1958, it still leaves the people unprotected for the next two summers when an epidemic might be quite likely. We are still urging the public to subscribe to Operation Polio."

It was emphasized that the public has only two more days to pick up registration cards at local area drug stores.

The cards cost only $1 and entitle the holder to the first vaccine injection to be given during the week of May 13.

Registration must be made in advance because the vaccine is perishable, and the Medical Society must order a specific amount from Connaught Laboratories in Toronto.

Up to 4 p.m. Wednesday, more than 5,200 persons had registered.

A spokesman for the doctors said this was encouraging, but added that an estimated 60,000 persons in the Greater Victoria area up to the age of 40 are susceptible to polio.

Second shots will be given in June and the third next January. Each will cost $1.

HOWARD STAINS ... to Idaho

U.S. OFFICER LEAVES

City Loses Top Booster To New Job

By TONY DICKASON

Over his coffee this morning, Howard Stains expressed regret at having to leave Victoria—and did it with a sincerity that even a native son would have a difficult time matching.

Mr. Stains has been a U.S. immigration inspector here for seven years, and is moving within a few days to Eastport, Idaho.

"It is with deep regret I leave Victoria. It has been the most wonderful period of my life. I've never had such wonderful friends, and that goes for my wife, Inez, too."

He smiled thoughtfully, and added: "I don't have the proper words to express my pleasure and happiness at our association with Victorians."

HERE IN 1950

Mr. and Mrs. Stains came here in April, 1950. He has been with U.S. Immigration since 1941 and has worked in his home town of Portland, Ore., Tacoma, Victoria, as well as short postings in Los Angeles and in New Jersey.

The Stains have been living in the Tweedsmuir Apartments, adjacent to Beacon Hill Park, and the couple are duck fanciers, usually.

"The only way to outwit those voracious gulls and feed the ducks in the winter," he vouchsafed, "is to feed them wheat."

"Seagulls can't pick up the wheat like they do bread, while ducks can."

The Pacific Club and Shrine Club member, after a few words about immigration itself—"most of our trouble comes from lack of proper documentation or proof of citizenship," returned to his favorite subject, Victoria.

"I've made my work fun here," said the volunteer publicist for the city, "and to walk down the street and have people say 'hello' is a real thrill."

Men's Department Invasion Gives Us Some Style Ideas

By PENNY SAVER

Any men reading the column today will cringe slightly when they see what I'm about to do with their silk cravats. I've been looking at these pleated and patterned cravats in a man's department for some weeks, and when the newest solid shade and printed ones arrived, I simply could resist no longer.

Ladies... a cummerbund! Yes, these cravats, with pleated centre section and wider ends make gay, soft cummerbunds for your summer frocks. Tie the ends in a loose knot and let it highlight the back of your outfit. They're just the right length. The pleated centre part gives a dainty, neat front view. In pure silk, which is all the rage this season, these cummerbunds, or if you wish, cravats, come in light shades with a turnover color, or in tiny dotted print.

You can have a bit of fun dressing up your last year's cottons at a low cost. These converted cravats are $3.50 each. Oh yes, they do have another use... for you men who like to wear cravats.

More surprises for you girls! There has been a new shipment of English-made knee socks, especially for your Bermuda shorts. Argyles to team with your tartan or staid worsted shorts come in all colors with red, green, pink, yellow and white teamed with greys and browns for striking effects. Of nylon and wool, the socks are reinforced, and shrink resisting and the price is $5. If you prefer white cable-knit socks, they are $5.50 and lighter-weight cotton and wool or all-wool are priced at $2.50. The range of colors is wonderful.

If your Bermuda shorts have seen better days or if you want another pair, just for the fun of it, you can buy them in a favorite tartan at $14.50 or in solid worsted, $16.50. There are denim, cotton and light flannel Bermudas selling at various prices, too.

Since summer clothes seem to be the order of the day, I'll tell you about a white linen sheath dress I've found. It has three-quarter, cuffed sleeves, a Peter Pan collar and a four-button neckline. There are two deep pockets in the slim skirt, and the waistline is nipped in with a little self-belt.

IN HONOR OF THE BRIDE

Miss Joan Thorne and Miss Ethel John were hostesses recently at the Thorne home on East Saanich Road when they honored bride-elect, Miss Margaret Holt with a miscellaneous shower. A corsage was presented to the bride-to-be and a miniature church held the many gifts. Cherry blossoms and daffodils decorated the rooms. Invited guests were Mrs. R. Tucker, Misses Marilyn Darbes, Maureen Sims, Joan Pugh, Eileen Gardner, Winnie Reid, Barbara Starck, Barbara Peters, Connie Downey, Angela Morley, Hazel Munn, Sylvia Steel, Aimee McDonnell, Cathie Slater, Barbara McLellan, Dorothy Luten, Marian Eckhart, and Marian McKay.

Staff members of the observation ward of Royal Jubilee Hospital gave a shower at the home of Mrs. H. C. Watson, 824 Wollaston Street, to honor Miss Sidney Barlow, who will be married in mid-May. Guests presented the bride-elect with a personal gift and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Alex Baird, mother of the groom-elect, received a corsage of pink carnations. Those present were Mrs. B. Bayliss, Mrs. E. Ovas, Mrs. L. Ashton, Mrs. D. Robe, Mrs. J. Trace, Mrs. Ivy McLeod, Mrs. E. Caley, and Misses M. Christensen, M. Ure, B. Round, M. Kendall, J. Renshaw, Pearl Townsend, O. Wilson and J. McGrath.

'Hydrofoil' Vessel Due for Launching

A hush-hush Canadian hydrofoil research craft was scheduled for launching Monday at the Saunders-Roe Anglesey Ltd. works near Bangor, in Wales, according to Ken Methers, Canadian Press staff writer.

The 59-foot, 17-ton craft has been designed and built under contract to the Canadian government, and is expected to be used for research into high-speed water travel. Detailed evaluation tests will be carried out by the Canadian Defence Research Board at Halifax. Methers described the craft as follows:

The hull, of aluminum alloy, is fitted with three hydrofoil units of similar size—a forward pair mounted on each side of the hull and a unit mounted behind the transom. Much of the hydrofoil design is under a strict security blanket, but it is known that each unit contains several v-shaped blades and that the hydrofoil system employed is of a "surface-piercing" type in which the upper blades leave the water as speed increases.

"Advantages claimed for the "ladder" system of surface-piercing hydrofoils are the achievement of large hull clearances at speed while retaining good structural properties for scaling to larger craft.

"The system is reported to be inherently stable, a property which would have obvious advantages for naval craft needing to combine high speed with stable platform for either guns or guided missiles.

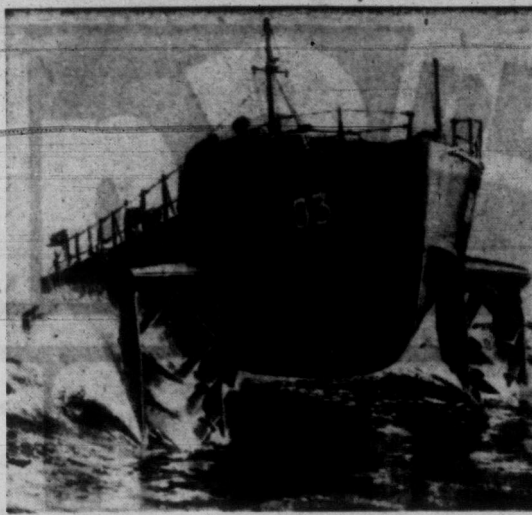

"The prototype of the Bras d'Or, the R-100 Massawippi, has been undergoing extensive trials at the Canadian naval research establishment. The R-100 has a length of 45 feet and the decision to build a larger research vehicle is believed to indicate that the experimental work is progressing satisfactorily."

WORKS LIKE WINGS

Hydrofoils actually are airfoil sections or little metal wings that work in water in exactly the same way that an aircraft's wing works in air. However, since water is 800 times denser than air, the hydrofoil need only be 1/800th the size of an airfoil to provide the same amount of lift at equal speeds.

They have several advantages, the chief one being that, within certain limitations, speed varies directly as the power. In planing craft speed varies as the square of the power, and in displacement vessels it varies as the cube of the power.

They are set in staggered lad-

Canada's "hush-hush" hydrofoil craft built in Wales.

der formation under the hull, so that as speed and "wing loading" increase, the whole unit rises to the point where weight equals lift. If speed increases, lift increases, and the hull rises again until weight and lift balance.

They are remarkably steady. Chop affects them little, and on a turn they tend to bank the boat in the direction of the turn. This is because the hydrofoils on the outside of the curve must of necessity go farther and faster than those on the inside, therefore will have more lift. Result is that the boat banks nicely, like a well-handled aircraft.

SMOOTH AT 70 MPH

One of the experimental models built by Bell and Baldwin in the years immediately following the First World War was powered by four Liberty aircraft engines driving air propellers. It would ride smoothly through chop at 70 miles per hour, making little or no underwater noise and could turn sharply.

Once in a test, Baldwin drove it full tilt at a floating bale of hay so that the hydrofoil unit on one side hit the sodden hay. The boat was thrown around violently, but remained on an even keel until Baldwin resumed control.

For no good reason, and with one exception, the hydrofoil principle was forgotten until after the Second World War, when interest revived again. This time they may be here to stay.

Scurrah Would Sell Lake Land At Fair Price

'Should Belong To Saanich'

Saanich Council can buy the Beaver-Elk Lake watershed from the city as far as Mayor Percy Scurrah is concerned, but at a "fair appraised value."

Mayor Scurrah commented Wednesday on a Saanich move to buy the land and dedicate it as a municipal park.

"That is a valuable piece of property and my personal opinion is that it should belong to Saanich and be dedicated as park property."

BIG ASSET

"It would be a tremendous asset for Saanich and I would be agreeable to selling it at a fair appraised value. I feel council would agree."

Reeve Arthur Ash had cautioned his council to await a decision on the report that Capital District Improvement Commission might take over the property and develop it as a park.

The mayor, in this regard, said: "It has been the policy of the CIDC to pay for park properties. I have not been interested in just handing over those assets at Elk Lake for nothing. That is why the property has not been considered so seriously by the commission."

Labor Newspaper Urged by Unionist

A suggestion that the Victoria Labor Council start its own newspaper to report "all the facts" of the labor movement was tabled at a VLC meeting Wednesday.

The suggestion was advanced by longshoremen's delegate Ralph Forbes who said "we are not getting the publicity from the local press." He said it was "slanted."

IWA business agent, Ed Haw, said: "I'm not prepared to buy that," pointing out that if no news resulted from meetings nothing could be said in the press.

But he scored "editors and publishers," charging that through editorial policies they "warped the minds of the people."

V.I. Speakers Win Contests At Portland

Four Island members of the Dale Carnegie Club International won top honors in a district convention at Portland, Ore., last weekend.

Two of them, Eileen Jubb, Victoria, and William Taylor, Departure Bay, will enter finals of a Dale Carnegie international convention in Houston, Texas, next month.

Mrs. Jubb won first place in the Impromptu class, and John L. Nieuwendorp, Victoria, placed second. Mr. Taylor took first place in nothing. That is why the property prepared speech section, with Mrs. Rose Richardson, Duncan, second.

City Police Said Doomed To Lower Pay

Duties of Victoria and Vancouver police are not different enough to justify a $28 higher monthly wage in the mainland city.

This opinion was expressed by Melvin J. Kemmis, Vancouver, in a minority conciliation board report.

The $28 differential was before Victoria's 93 policemen were awarded an 8 per cent pay boost last month.

Mr. Kemmis, union nominee on the board, feared the Victoria force would be doomed to a perpetual sub-standard salary.

New Levy Aimed At Home Tax Cut

By PETER LOUDON

Victoria City Council today adopted a business tax to be effective before the end of this year.

The tax will be levied as a percentage of rental values which are to be assessed between now and August 31.

Within the next week council, while studying the economics of the 1957 provisional budget, will decide on the amount of new revenue to be raised by the tax.

The new levy may save the city from an expected four-mill tax hike.

The tax rate will be set when the new assessment rolls are completed.

Ald Donald Smith, who has promoted institution of business tax for years, congratulated the committee of Ald. Hugh Ramsay for bringing in an acceptable recommendation.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay's business tax committee devised the new levy at a closed session Tuesday night.

The alderman said his committee, including Ald. Austin Curtis and Ald. E. D. McEwen, felt the actual amount to be raised by business tax should be decided by council when it is studying estimates next week.

"I would hazard a guess it would keep the proposed mill rate boost to a maximum of one mill," he said.

The provisional budget, due to be presented Friday, calls for a four-mill increase—$4 additional taxes for every $1,000 of assessed value—from city property holders.

The committee feels the proposed business tax will earn less in the first year than in later years, because it will cost an estimated $35,000 to set up the new tax roll.

The new tax, a set percentage of assessed rental values, is in line with authorization granted by the new Municipal Act and calls for no special legislation.

Under the plan, merchants would be advised the tax is to be charged this year and although the present system of trade licences would be scrapped, payments made by merchants in January and July would be credited to the business tax levy.

B.C. Mining Laws Help to Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—The territorial department of mines says Alaska already has benefited "to a certain extent" by two laws passed recently in British Columbia.

The department, in its May bulletin, describes the two laws as "detrimental" to the future of mining in the province.

"B.C.'s loss is, to a certain extent, Alaska's gain," the bulletin says, "and this condition will improve (for Alaska) as time goes on."

B.C. Longshoremen Accept Pay Boost

VANCOUVER (CP)—A wage increase of 30 cents an hour has been accepted by 1,300 longshoremen in Vancouver, New Westminster and Vancouver Island centres.

The Shipping Federation of B.C., an employer group, was meeting today to decide whether to accept the proposal.

The proposed increase would raise longshoremen's wages in Vancouver, New Westminster, Port Alberni, Victoria and Chemainus to $2.57 an hour from $2.27.

Judgment Reserved

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today reserved judgment on an appeal involving mineral rights on former Indian lands sold to 13 Alberta soldier-settlers after the First World War.

The group claims the mineral rights on the lands, in the Ponoka area south of Edmonton, but the federal government contends they are held by the Crown. (See story Page 21.)

$1 Million Gate Predicted for Bout

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson today was offered a guarantee of $200,000 to defend his newly-regained middleweight title here against welterweight champion Carmen Basilio.

Each fighter in Wednesday night's title bout received $68,990. After his win Sugar Ray found three internal revenue men waiting in his dressing room. Earlier the federal men had tied up his purse for $23,000 owing in back income taxes.

The bout, to be held at either Municipal Stadium or Connie Mack Stadium, would be promoted by city councilman Sam Rose who said he had "ample backing" for the proposed bout.

Rose said he had offered Robinson the guarantee with the privilege of taking 35 per cent of the net gate, and predicted the bout would draw as high as $1,000,000.

He said he expected to meet with Robinson and his manager, George Gainford, in New York on Saturday, and that the Robinson camp would decide shortly whether they would prefer the bout were held in Philadelphia or at Yankee Stadium in New York.

RAY'S OWN STORY

Priest, Joe Louis Helped Him Win

By RAY ROBINSON
(Written for the United Press)

Two of my best friends—a fighting priest and a fighting ex-champion—joined hands in making me the middleweight champion of the world again.

They were Father Lane (The Rev. Jovian Lane of St. Joseph's Seminary, Westmont, Ill.), who gave me spiritual guidance, and Joe Louis, who gave me the benefit of his boxing experience.

I'm not a Catholic—I go to all churches—but Father Lane was kind and gracious enough to help me spiritually in my time of need. He's been with me before other fights and I've never lost when he's been in my corner.

It also must have been Divine Providence that enabled Louis to be with me throughout my training, and it was the hundreds of his little suggestions put together that enabled me to change my style sufficiently from my first fight to score the knockout that I felt was in me.

When a boxer gets older he's bound to lose some of his sharpness but it's impossible for him to recognize what's gone. Joe did that for me like the true friend he is. More than anything else, he taught me how to step back and punch as Fullmer came pressing in on me. That's what I just couldn't do in the first fight and it proved to be the difference this time.

Joe was a great stylist and a terrific boxer—a lot of people forget this because he was one of the greatest punchers of all time. But believe me, when he talked I listened—and I must have listened pretty good.

I'm not kidding myself a bit. I needed all the help I could get. This Fullmer is one rough cookie and I feel mighty fortunate that I won as I did. He's strong as a bull and takes a punch like few boys around these days. I drove home several good shots and all he did was blink and come back swinging.

He was a fairly easy target and I felt rather confident that one of those shots would have just a little something on it and he'd have to fall rather than blink.

I think I weakened him with a couple of sharp rights earlier in the fifth, which certainly helped when the opening presented itself as he charged in and I swung home the left hook that put him on the canvas.

U.S. Won't Cut Armed Strength In Europe—Ike

(From UP and CP Dispatches)

BONN, Germany — President Eisenhower told the North Atlantic Alliance today that the U.S. will maintain its forces at their present strength despite Britain's planned defence cuts.

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conveyed this message to the NATO council as it opened a three-day session in the West German capital of Bonn.

Dulles said the president instructed him to say that no changes are contemplated in U.S. plans as disclosed to NATO last December. This means the U.S. will not follow the recent example of Britain, which is cutting her forces in Europe and will reduce her armed forces by 50 per cent in the next five years.

The NATO ministers opened a three-day session with a brief public meeting at Bad Godesberg, followed by a closed session at the West German foreign ministry.

Dulles said the U.S., like Britain, is placing increased reliance on the deterrent powers of atomic weapons.

He urged the introduction by the next federal government of a capital gains tax, adoption of a national health insurance scheme and a minimum $75 monthly old-age pension, expansion of home-ownership and

Zucco Story 'Shameful', Says Turner

VANCOUVER (CP) — A CCF MLA today attacked the Social Credit government for rejecting a petition of right filed by a disabled miner.

Arthur Turner, Vancouver East, said the rejection shows that the government is afraid to "enforce its own legislation."

The petition was filed last November for Jack Zucco of New Westminster in the miner's long fight to receive a full silicosis pension from the Workmen's Compensation Board.

"The whole story is a shameful sequence of events in which the claimant has proven that the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act, aided and abetted by the provincial government, has degenerated from a farce to a tragedy," said Mr. Turner.

He said Zucco, after using all legal avenues to prove his claim, has been denied the right to prove the Compensation Board is "guilty of maladministration of the act."

He said the "legality of the board is now seriously challenged."

Delay to Fall Indicated In Sommers' Case

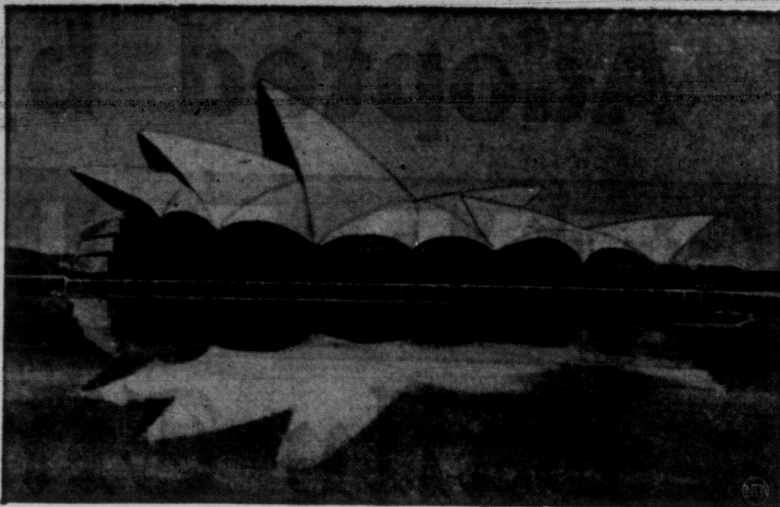

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prospects that the trial of Robert Sommers' slander action against lawyer David Sturdy will proceed on the appointed date of June 3 dimmed today.

Alfred Bull, counsel for Mr. Sommers, said in court of appeal that an application to the Supreme Court of Canada for leave to appeal an order of Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan allowing Mr. Sturdy to inspect bank accounts will not be heard until sometime in June.

The long court vacation will prevent trial sittings during July and August, and indications are that the case will not be tried until September or October.

Premier Bennett Opens Kelowna Plywood Plant

U.S. Marines Right at Home Amid Belly-Dancing Lebanese

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP) — It was difficult to tell today who was getting a bigger kick out of the U.S. Sixth Fleet's visit to the Middle East — Marines on shore liberty or their Lebanese hosts.

Lt.-Col. Andrew I. Lyman, of camp LeJeune, N.C., said his troops found Beirut like Las Vegas with a touch of Paris and the Lebanese people as cordial as they could be.

"The boys have had a great time admiring that honorable institution of belly dancing in the nightclubs here," Lyman said. "But we still have some pretty good belly dancing back in Boston."

Maj. Robert Hillard Barrow, of St. Francisville, La., said the Marines were having such a good time here they did not regret having their six-day liberty in

Eisenhower Defends Foreign Aid Policy

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Eisenhower made a strong plea Wednesday against cutting foreign aid funds, and said: "Let's not throw away one of the engines of the ship of state."

He was speaking informally to members of the National Council of the League of Women Voters, who called on him at the White House. Eisenhower said he would like to go out of office in 1960 with "an even bigger tax cut" than in 1954.

But he said that all he would like to accomplish in the field of economy and tax reductions came back finally to the problem of foreign policy.

Some Congress members are trying to reduce the president's record peacetime budget and have made foreign aid one of their main targets.

FREEDOM, NEW LIFE WON FOR NEW CANADIANS

Separated 13 years by the Iron Curtain, the family of Pacific Club steward Josef Heimbach, right, was reunited midnight Wednesday at Patricia Bay airport. Horst, left, is 16; was three when last seen by his father. Wife Elena, exhausted by eight days of questioning by Rumanian and Canadian officials, confused by language difficulties, rested today. The Heimbachs have been apart since Josef was drafted into the German navy in 1944. When Russia took over Rumania, he could not return nor get his family out. Miracle reunion was effected by Red Cross. Society has worked on the Heimbach case almost four years. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials believe that Saudi Arabia and Jordan will join Egypt and Syria soon in creating a new show of Arab unity, despite their recent political conflict over Jordan's fate. This prospect was advanced here today as one reason why the United States has not directly pointed a finger of blame at Egypt's President Nasser for his role in the Jordanian crisis. U.S. policy and propaganda apparently are designed to take into account the desires and purposes of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Hussein of Jordan. American officials say they do not believe that real unity can in fact be restored among the four, but if Saud and Hussein want to play Arab politics that way the U.S. evidently will not interfere.

Furthermore, officials do not want to get American policy in a position where the two Arab rulers could cut the ground

Supreme Court Hears Involved Mineral Claim

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada was led today through a succession of property transfers involving an Indian band, the federal government and various agencies and 13 Alberta soldier-settlers in the Ponoka area. The object was to establish whether the settlers own the mineral rights. Lawyer G. H. Steer of Edmonton, counsel for 13 First World War veterans who bought from the old soldier settlement board a total of 31.5 square miles formerly belonging to the Bobtail band of Indians, quoted from statutes and documents. He sought to show that when the Indians surrendered their land to the federal government in 1909 their surrender involved all rights.

At stake is a ruling by the Exchequer Court of Canada that the settlement board had no power to convey the mineral rights.

The issue arose when in 1948 the federal government announced it would transfer to soldier-settlers who had paid off their land purchase the mineral rights to it—if the government owned the rights. Where, the right belongs? The issue was decided by the Exchequer Court in 1954. The 13 appellants were invited by the settlement board to apply for the rights and to pay a $25 fee to cover costs and administration. Later the fee money was returned, with letters saying a check had disclosed that the mineral rights in their land remained with the Indian affairs branch, not the settlement board.

Britain's foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, said he believes the West was right to base its defence on the nuclear deterrent. The Soviet satellites "are now a source of anxiety and a liability instead of being easily exploitable territories."

The speaker at the opening session was West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who challenged Russia to match West Germany's pledges of 1954 not to produce atomic, bacteriological or chemical weapons and to accept strict and permanent control of all armaments.

He noted that the ministers' conference was taking place at a time characterized by threatening notes from Russia to member states.

Adenauer was referring to recent Soviet notes to West Germany, Denmark and Norway protesting against any establishment of atomic bases on those countries' territories.

He said Russia has 7,500 tanks in East Germany, "nearly 3,500 more than three years ago," and "I can see this only a latent threat."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive a prize. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a—Hammond's South Dakota and Colorado for Ambassador World Atlas to low in that order. Most of this Harold Bouffard, age 13, of Maynard, Mass., for his question:

Is there a U.S. State that Mines Gold?

South Africa is the treasure trove of the world's diamonds and gold. Most of the diamonds and over a third of all the gold are mined there. Russia and Canada take second and third place in world gold output. Next in line is the United States of America. Over 6,000,000 ounces are mined in the U. S. a thing of the past. Nowadays that is over 175 tons of gold! California, the Golden State, is first in gold output. Utah, ores.

Placer gold is found sprinkled through sand and gravel in the form of flakes and grains. A stream heavy gold is left at the bottom. This easy gold mining is mostly of America. We have to dig for gold deep in the ground and even then it is often mixed with other ores.
